NEW HOUSE OF LORDS FOR BRITAIN IS OUTLINED

OTTAWA TO BE HEARD PLAINLY HERE ON JULY 1

Success Apparently Assured of One of Most Ambitious "Tie-In" Projects Ever Attempted in North America

INITIAL TEST MADE OF DIFFICULT PART

Result of Try-Out Last Week-End Leads Experts in Charge to Regard Achievement of Object as Assured

OTTAWA, June 20.—The initial test made by the broadcasting committee in charge of the radio programme for the Jubilee of Confederation has proved to be a marked success. Further tests will be made at the end of the present week, and again shortly before the First of July to demonstrate the practicability of one of the most ambitious "tie-in" schemes ever attempted on the North American continent or elsewhere.

The first test was made over the week-end, and through it the experts in charge succeeded in linking up the provinces of Quebec, Ontario and Manitoba as far as Winnipeg. It now remains to test the system eastward and westward, but in the opinion of those in charge the most difficult part of the feat has been accomplished and the success of the project planned is practically assured.

OBJECT IN VIEW

The objective of this ambitious network of radio communication is that the sound of the carillon in the Peace Tower, of the speeches delivered and of the songs sung shall be heard throughout the local broadcasting stations, twenty in number, as plainly at Halifax and Victoria as it will be at the central broadcasting point in Ottawa.

BETTER TERMS INQUIRY IS OPENED HERE

Mr. Justice Martin, of Regina, as Commissioner, Begins Proceedings in Parliament Buildings This Morning

HON. L. CANNON TO ACT FOR DOMINION

Attorney-General Manson and Mr. C. W. Craig, K.C., Will Present Case for Return of Areas to B.C.

AT ten o'clock this morning Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, of Regina, of the Supreme Court of Saskatchewan, will open his initial sitting for the hearing of the claims of the Province of British Columbia as presented by the Government for the return of the Dominion railway lands within British Columbia to the jurisdiction of this Province, with an accounting with respect to the handling of the lands in the past. This will also include the question of the Peace River Block, which also passed into the hands of the Dominion.

It is impossible to say how long the commission will sit. Hon. A. M. Manson, Attorney-General for the Province, will have charge of the case for the Province and will be assisted by Mr. C. W. Craig, K.C., of Vancouver. Each of them will take part in the presentation of the claims of the Province for the return of these areas.

On the other side, representing the Dominion of Canada, there will appear Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor-General of the Dominion, who has come West for the purpose of taking part in the proceedings.

Mr. Cannon says that his part in the proceedings will be governed largely by the part which the Province takes. He is here holding a watching brief for the Dominion as a whole, as compared with the Province of British Columbia in particular. He is at a loss to know as yet just what his attitude may be towards the Province's claim.

It is not known as yet whether there will be further sittings of the commission following the one here. Such will depend upon the view of the commission following the proceedings in this city. If it is deemed best to have future sittings either in Ottawa or elsewhere in the opinion of Mr. Justice Martin, they will be held.

The sittings will be conducted in the Members Room in the Parliament Buildings.

Before the Premier went East he had been busy with the preparation of the claim of the Province as he saw it, and a very considerable amount of data was put in shape by him. It is presumed that as far as the Government of the Province is concerned in its presentation, this will be used as the basis of the case.

BOY EMPEROR IS PRECOCIOUS LAD

LONDON DAILY EXPRESS PUBLISHES "INTERVIEW" WITH CHINA'S EX-MONARCH

Surprising Knowledge Shown by Young Man Kept in Seclusion From Infancy Up

LONDON, June 20.—The opinion that China is suffering more than anything else from "too many rotten generals," and that the time will come when the country will again have an emperor, was expressed by Hsuan Tung, former "Boy Emperior" of China, in an interview, said by The London Daily Express to have been given to its Tientsin correspondent. Hsuan, who has lived in the Japanese Concession of Tientsin since he was forced to leave the Imperial Palace at Peking in 1925, declaring that he never wished to be emperor again, said:

HIS AMBITIONS

"It is no sinecure to be emperor or king today. A good emperor or king must be a representative of and father to his people, and I am not good enough, morally or mentally, to be father to the people of China. I am sure the time will come when there will again be an emperor in United China, but it must be somebody greater than I."

Nevertheless, he added that his one ambition was to serve the Chinese people and make any sacrifice to help them. He wished to visit England and Europe and thereafter settle down as an ordinary citizen or statesman and assist in the reconstruction of China.

OPINION ON SITUATION

Asked his opinion of Chang Tso Lin, the Northern Dictator, Hsuan declared: "He is like the rest of them, except that he seems to have made a determined stand against the Bolsheviki. His dictatorship is important because it will bring together all parties of the North, but it must not be forgotten that it will also consolidate swiftly all the factions now divided in the South. Whether he will succeed almost entirely depends on what help he receives from England and Japan. I know Japan will help him, because she knows her own interests are threatened."

Leading Figures in Inquiry on Better Terms

MR. JUSTICE MARTIN
Of Supreme Court of Saskatchewan, is Commissioner in British Columbia Better Terms Investigation.

HON. LUCIEN CANNON
Solicitor-General of Canada, will represent Government of Canada in the Better Terms Inquiry. The Government of Canada will hear what arguments are advanced for return of the railway lands, and it is expected an announcement of policy on the issue will be made, as was done in the case of the Maritime Provinces' claims last session. Mr. Cannon is accompanied by Mrs. Cannon to Victoria

Transatlantic Air Service Must Await Construction of New Plane, States de Pinedo

ROME, June 20.—The time is ripe for the serious organization of transoceanic aviation lines on the basis of the transoceanic journey being divided into several laps, in the opinion of Commander Francesco de Pinedo, Italian long distance aviator, as expressed in an interview with Tribuna today.

The use of machines like those of Charles A. Lindbergh, Clarence D. Chamberlin and Commander Richard E. Byrd, is impracticable, because of the frequent necessity for lengthy waiting for favorable atmospheric conditions, Commander de Pinedo was quoted as saying. This was not true of the Santa Maria, in which he crossed from Newfoundland to Portugal by way of the Azores, he said.

(All three of the American planes mentioned are equipped only for alighting on land, while the Santa Maria is equipped for making sea landings.)

MUST AWAIT NEW PLANES

"It is necessary to split up the trip into several laps and to await the construction of a new machine capable of greater mobility and a more limited consumption of gasoline, permitting the carrying of freight and passengers," Commander de Pinedo said. "This machine will certainly be built."

The construction of midatlantic landing stages, such as are suggested by Lindbergh, would probably be so enormously costly that by the time of their functioning it is likely aviation would have progressed so far as not to need them, in the opinion of the Italian flyer.

De Pinedo asserted there was no reason to believe that Otto Koennecke, the German pilot, will not be successful in his projected attempt to fly from Berlin to San Francisco.

WITHIN A YEAR FROM NOW

"Considering the progress of aviation, why cannot we admit the possibility within a year of nonstop flights of twenty thousand or thirty thousand kilometres (12,500 or 18,750 miles)," he continued.

Referring to his own plans, the Italian aviator who has just completed a flight that carried him over four continents, said that his fondest dream would be a flight around the world, but that there was nothing yet definite decided.

"It is necessary to build a land machine with a cruising radius of 30,000 kilometres, using the most limited amount of gasoline," he said. "I am convinced that this will soon be built by Italians, who now lead the world in this direction."

DUNCAN IS SAVED BY LACK OF WIND

Stables and Laundry in Up-Island City Totally Destroyed in Early Morning Conflagration

VOLUNTEER FIREMEN DO SPLENDID WORK

DUNCAN, June 20.—The absence of the slightest vestige of wind here last night probably saved a considerable portion of Duncan from being wiped out by flames when fire, discovered in the Pitt Freighting Stables, Ingraham Street, about 1 o'clock this morning, totally destroyed that building and the Cowichan Laundry situated next door.

When the fire alarm sounded the stables were already a roaring furnace and the greatest credit is due to the Volunteer Fire Department for the splendid work of confining the fire to the area covered.

The barn, one of the first buildings erected in the city, was owned by Mr George Lewis, but the business was conducted by Mr. C. W. Pitt, whose loss is heavy. Three horses and five pigs were burned to a cinder. One valuable team destroyed was only purchased by Mr. Pitt last week. The third horse burned was the property of a Vancouver owner. Another, similarly owned, was released from the burning stable and escaped uninjured. A quantity of feed, machinery of various kinds and two motor cars were also destroyed.

The Cowichan Laundry, which is Chinese owned, was a modern building, well equipped. Sixteen hundred dollars worth of new machinery had just been installed. A box under a bed, containing $480 in cash, was lost in the flames. This had just been drawn out of the bank to pay the employeees the following day. Neither of the buildings or any of their contents was insured. The total loss will run to about twelve thousand dollars.

It was at first thought that Alderlea United Church and Recreation Hall, which are in close proximity to the burned stable, would be a total loss, and the fact that they were not is unquestionably owing to the fact that three fine maple trees acted as a shield against the flames. Residences across the street were seriously menaced and saved with difficulty, as was the residence of Mr. S. Robinson on Kenneth Street. The Cowichan Country Club was also in the danger zone.

Spirit of Locarno Somewhat Obscured

BERLIN, June 20.—After reporting to President von Hindenburg on the League Council meeting, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, Foreign Minister, submitted a lengthy report at a Cabinet Council held this evening.

The Cabinet approved the attitude of the German delegation.

It is expected that when the political debate on foreign affairs begins in the Reichstag on June 23, Dr. Stresemann will be sharply criticized for what his opponents term "the Geneva fiasco."

Moreover, the speech of M. Poincare, the French Premier, at Luneville yesterday, in which he took Germany to task for failure to live up to her obligations, has brought further grist to the Nationalist mill, whose press brands it as conclusive proof that "the Locarno spirit is dead so far as France is concerned."

STRANGLER TRIAL MAY BE ADVANCED

Coroner's Jury Gives Verdict of Guilty Against Him After Two Hours' Evidence

WINNIPEG, June 20.—Earle Nelson, alias Virgil Wilson, alleged to be the "strangler," sat in the prisoner's dock in the little courtroom at central police headquarters tonight for two hours while twenty-six witnesses testified at the coroner's inquest into the death of Lolo Cowan, fourteen-year-old schoolgirl, and Mrs. Emily Patterson, twenty-seven year-old choir singer, and mother of two children, murdered here, June 9 and 10, respectively.

The verdict read: "We, the jury, find that Lola Cowan and Mrs. Emily Patterson came to their deaths by smothering and strangling, and, from the evidence submitted, we are of the opinion that Earle Nelson murdered both."

MAY BE TRIED IN JULY

The possibility of a speedy trial for Nelson, if he is committed at Thursday's preliminary hearing, was discussed again today. If necessary, the trial may be held in July instead of at the Fall assizes.

Hon. W. J. Major, Attorney-General, announced tonight that the work of the present criminal assizes was expected to finish on Wednesday of this week, and that the presiding judge, Mr. Justice D. A. Macdonald, had consented to the adjournment of the assizes until a convenient day in July in order to hear the Nelson case, in the event of the alleged murderer being committed to the higher court.

TRANSOCEAN AIR SERVICE TO BE TESTED

British Aviator to Make Round Trip With Commercial Cargo—Landing in Ireland and Newfoundland

LONG RANGE RADIO WILL BE CARRIED

Experiment to Be Made Under Auspices of Westminster Gazette—Plane Can Float for Days

(Copyright, 1927, in Great Britain by Westminster Gazette; in all other countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

LONDON, June 21.—Hoping to blaze the transatlantic sky trail of future commercial air lines, Captain F. T. Courtney, widely-known pilot, will hop off from England in the near future to fly to New York and return, he announced today. Captain Courtney will fly under the auspices of The Westminster Gazette and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

"This isn't a stunt flight," Captain Courtney said, in announcing his intention of competing for the remaining aerial honors. "I expect to do just what commercial planes will do soon on the transatlantic route. We don't intend to linger along the way, and will complete the round trip in the shortest possible time. The wind will be unfavorable on the outward trip. But we can probably count on favorable winds for the return journey. Taking this into account, the flight to New York will take us forty-three hours, and the return trip, allowing for the time consumed in refueling, less than forty hours.

"The British airmen will carry a message from the Lord Mayor of London to Mayor Walker of New York, also a small quantity of commercial cargo."

EQUIPPED WITH RADIO

Captain Courtney will use a Dornier Wal all-metal flying boat, a sea-going monoplane veteran of Captain Roald Amundson's flight poleward in 1925. The plane is now being tested and outfitted at Friedrichshaven on Lake Constance. It has a wing or seventy-four feet. Two 440-horsepower Napier engines will drive it at a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour. Captain Courtney chose the Wal because of its exceptional sturdiness. It has outridden storms in open sea that would have sunk a wooden flying boat. He pointed out that the Italian airman, Locatelli, remained after afloat three days in a Wal after having been forced down off Greenland in 1924

GENERAL HERTZOG GAINS APPROVAL

Concession Made as to Flag Design Is Applauded by Rand Daily Mail—Warning Given

JOHANNESBURG, June 20. The Rand Daily Mail, Independent, commenting on the Hertzog Government's new design for the proposed national flag of South Africa in the Union Jack occupies one-sixteenth part of the flag, expresses the opinion the present attitude of the Government is based on the belief that the new design contains all the elements of agreement among the various political parties of the Union.

"So far as the Government is concerned," The Daily Mail continues, "the latest design is a very big advance upon anything heretofore offered, and the only sensible and patriotic thing to do is to take advantage of the better atmosphere which this latest concession on the flag question undoubtedly indicates.

"If the politicians are determined to make party capital out of the issue they must accept the responsibility for the consequences and the penalty they may be called upon to pay may be no light one.

TRADE ENVOYS MEET MINISTER IN PARIS

PARIS, June 20—Hon James Malcolm, Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, held a conference here today with Canadian Trade Commissioners in Europe and discussed methods of increasing the Canadian export trade with the countries represented. Those included at the conference were M. Barre, Commissioner for France; Y. Lamontagne, Belgium, L. D. Wilgress, Germany, and A. B Muddiman, Holland

Australian State Aids British Film Industry

MELBOURNE, June 20.—The State of Victoria is determined to encourage the showing of British films in moving picture theatres instead of allowing American films to continue to monopolize the business, and to this end the Censorship Films Act, which was recently passed by the Legislature, will come into effect on July 1.

The act stipulates that every moving picture theatre programme in Victoria must include at least 2,000 feet of British film, and at least half of this must be of Australian manufacture.

British Peers Listen to Proposal of Government To Alter Upper House

Inheritance of Peerage Will Not Give Right to Sit in House of Lords—Number of Seats to Be Limited—Peers Will Elect Greater Part of Members—Others Will Be Nominated by Government

Substantial Body of Conservatives Would Press Reform Before Election

LONDON, June 20.—Sweeping changes in the constitution of the House of Lords were outlined by Lord Chancellor Cave, speaking in the House on behalf of the government this afternoon. Among the proposals outlined by the Lord Chancellor is the granting of authorization to the Sovereign to nominate a limited number of members for periods of twelve years, thus providing for representation of Laborites, and other parties in the Upper House.

The Government also proposes to reduce the number of members by the election from the ranks of the hereditary peers of a fixed number to sit for twelve-year periods, one-third retiring every fourth year and being eligible for re-election. The peers to sit in the House would be selected by their fellow peers. Those not elected to the House of Lords would be eligible to election in the House of Commons. The hereditary character of the peerage, however, would be preserved.

No indication was given as to the date when the Government will produce its bill. The programme between now and the next general election, which must be held by November 1929, is very full, but there is a substantial body of Conservative opinion in favor of pressing through the long-awaited reforms before that date.

HOUSE CROWDED

The Chamber presented an unusual sight this afternoon. Usually debates there are attended by no more than a dozen persons, but today the benches were crowded, the Bishops in their vestments adding color to the scene, while the galleries were filled with peeresses.

In the course of the debate, Viscount Fitzalen declared that under the present system the Government could introduce legislation abolishing the House of Lords and establishing a single chamber government without the Lords being able to prevent it. He said that he believed Socialists particularly would take this action.

Lord Chancellor Cave declared no reform of the Upper Chamber would be carried out without the Lords participating.

The Duke of Marlborough then moved, "That in view of the failure of any scheme of the House of Lords reform to arouse interest, the House regards further discussion of the question as inopportune and unprofitable."

Debate was adjourned until Wednesday.

HON. L. CANNON ARRIVES HERE

Solicitor-General of Canada Will Address Laurier Club Here on Friday at Luncheon Gathering

TO ATTEND AT INQUIRY HERE

Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor General of Canada, arrived in the city yesterday for the purpose of taking part in the commission sitting to inquire into the claims of the Province of British Columbia for a return of the Dominion Railway lands in this Province along the line of the C.P.R. and of the Peace River Block, which is also under the control of the Dominion.

The Solicitor General will represent the Dominion of Canada at the hearing before Mr. Justice Martin, of Regina, the commission appointed by the Dominion Government for the purpose of making the inquiry. The position that Mr. Cannon occupies is one, he says, of watching the progress of the proceedings on behalf of the Dominion. His attitude towards the subject matter will be one that will of necessity be determined as the matter proceeds.

Mr. Cannon's trip to the West has been made for the express purpose of attending the sittings of the commission here, and he will have to make a rather hurried return following the conclusion of the sitting. It had been his intention to travel North and proceed East from Prince Rupert, but his plans in this regard have now been altered and he will proceed East by way of Vancouver.

Public business requires the presence of the Solicitor General in the East by July 15, so that he will not be able to delay long on his way back. He has, moreover, a few engagements on the

Peking Dictator Claims to Have Army of 500,000 Intent Upon Exterminating Reds

SHANGHAI, June 20—Marshal Chang Tso Lin, who, on Saturday, was installed at Peking as Dictator of Northern China, made a speech recently at Peking in which he stated that the Northern forces totaled between 500,000 and 600,000 men determined to fight against the Reds until they exterminated them.

Interviewed subsequently, it is recalled, he remarked, that the anti-Communist protestations of General Chiang Kai Shek, leader of the Moderate Nationalists, were insincere.

PREMIER BRUCE'S PLAN IS ADOPTED

FINANCE OF AUSTRALIA'S PROVINCES TO BE CONTROLLED BY NATIONAL BOARD

Federal Government Comes to Rescue of Embarrassed States and Will Assume Debts

MELBOURNE, June 20.—Complete agreement has been reached at the conference of the Australian State Premiers with Premier S. M. Bruce of the Commonwealth on the question of the financial relations of the Federal and State Government.

Premier Bruce's scheme as finally approved by all the Premiers includes the appointment of a compulsory Loan Council, on which all States would be represented.

In the new scheme of Australian financing the Federal Government will take over all the debts of the Australian States.

The Federal Government will establish joint sinking funds to provide for the extinction of the existing debts of the States in fifty-eight years and the extinction of new loans in forty-three years.

NATIONAL CONTROL

The existing sinking fund redemption and the similar funds will be transferred to a national debt commission, and all future borrowings will be necessary to bring about these changes and this will involve the taking of a referendum. Pending this the States will enter into a temporary agreement for a period of two years on all the proposals except the proposal as to the Federal Government taking over the debts of the State.

CADETS FROM B.C. GET COMMISSIONS

KINGSTON, Ont., June 20—The Royal Military College was not founded to train men to go to an aggressive war, but so that Canadians could live with the assurance that they had trained men should an emergency arise, said Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, addressing the cadets at the closing exercises of the R. M. C. here today.

Two British Columbia cadets were among those recommended for commissions. J. U. O. Elliott, Vancouver, will take a commission in the Royal Artillery, and J. C. Hodson, Victoria, will enter the R. A. S. C.

British Aviators Make Plans for New Flight

LONDON, June 20.—Plans for another transatlantic flight were announced by Captain Robert H. McIntosh and Lieutenant-Colonel F. D. Minchin, the two pilots of the British Imperial Airways, who hope to fly from London to New York, then refuel in eight hours and fly back across the Atlantic again, continuing in the direction of the continent until their fuel gives out for a non-stop record. Under their plans the aviators hope to start from the North Holt Airdrome during the first week in August, taking turns piloting a Fokker monoplane, with a 450-horsepower Bristol Jupiter engine.

First in Line for Lands in Red Deer Area

Eager to file on certain blocks of land in the Burnt Land district, west of Red Deer, Alberta, these three men, John Pohanson, Sergus Jorgenson and C. W. Long, who already have farms in that district, took up their positions on the steps of the Red Deer Land Office, May 23, and remained there until the morning of June 8, when the land was thrown open for filing. A chilly northeast wind making them shiver, they erected a shelter made from a carpet within which they placed their bed rolls. C. W. Long was caught by the camera as he occupied the chair by the door on his tour of sentry go. They were not after the same piece of land and therefore worked in co-operation, relieving each other for meals and during sleep hours. The photograph shows the eagerness with which land is snapped up in the West along the lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway

DR. CLAY RETURNS FROM CONVENTION

New Moderator Reports That Progress of Presbyterian Church in Canada Has Been Satisfactory

PLAN DISCUSSED TO DOUBLE PENSIONS

Dr. W. L. Clay, new moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, returned yesterday from the General Assembly held at Stratford, eighty miles from Toronto.

Reports read at the meeting from all departments of the church showed that progress was satisfactory, missionary work in particular was found to be forging rapidly ahead. A decided step was taken in connection with pension funds, a plan being discussed to almost double the retiring allowance to ministers compelled to leave the services of the church on account of age.

The assembly grappled with the problem of securing an adequate supply of ministers for the Presbyterian Church and maintaining a high standard. Cordial relations have been established between the Presbyterian Church and other churches in Canada, the United States and the Old Country. Greetings were sent new churches established in Moose Jaw and Vancouver.

Considerable satisfaction has been expressed locally at the appointment on June 1, of Dr. Clay as moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The new moderator has been asked to officiate at the dedication of six churches in various parts of Canada.

Two men will accompany Captain Courtney, F. W. M. Downer, navigator, and R. F. Little, mechanic. Downer will act also as relieve pilot and radio operator. The plane has been equipped by the British Marconi Company with a radio set having a range of from 600 to 1,000 miles, which will enable the flyers to communicate with ships along the route and to report progress. In case of forced landing, an emergency mast can be stepped and an aerial strung, enabling the plane to call for help.

VIA NEWFOUNDLAND

Captain Courtney will leave immediately for Friedrichshaven to complete his tests and fly the Wal to Calshot naval flying base at Southampton. After taking off from Calshot he will fly to Valentia, Ireland, refuel and hop off for New Foundland. He will stop at Newfoundland long enough to fill his gas tank and then proceed to New York. He expects to remain in New York three or four days only, no longer than will the commercial transatlantic air lines of the future, then return to Newfoundland and back to Southampton without further stop.

The commander of the British transatlantic flight is one of the most commanding figures in the air world. He learned to fly before the World War. He is credited with having more flying hours than any contemporary English airman. Sir Sefton Brancker, air minister, has classed him as second only to Sir Alan Cobham, the British ace. During the war he served with distinction, establishing a reputation for daring and high character. Since the war he has attracted widespread attention as a test pilot, particularly for his ability to handle delicate and untried machines.

Prairies which will halt him on his eastward trip.

Mr. Cannon has accepted an invitation from the Laurier Club in Vancouver to attend a luncheon and address them on Saturday night. He has also an invitation to attend the convention of the Sheriffs and Chiefs of Police of the Northwest which is meeting in Nelson. He was asked to address this gathering, but is afraid now that he will not be able to accept the invitation, as the sitting of the commission is not likely to permit of this plan.

The Solicitor General is one of the most doughty political fighters of the Liberal party. In his constituency of Dorchester he has both in the legislative contests and later in the Federal elections for a number of years engaged in some close contests.

He is looked upon among the younger men of the party as one of the most outstanding supporters of the Liberal party, and one of the three foremost in the fighting ranks as far as the Province of Quebec is concerned.

He will address the Laurier Club of Victoria at 12:15 o'clock at a luncheon, at which Mr. Stephen Jones, the president, will introduce the speaker. The proceedings will be open to members of the public.

APPEAL IS MADE FOR MORE FUNDS

DIAMOND JUBILEE CELEBRATION REQUIRES FINANCIAL SUPPORT TO BE SURE OF SUCCESS

Total of $5,905 Raised Thus Far Toward Committee's Objective of $12,000

The executive committee of the Diamond Jubilee celebration of Confederation programme, in issuing an appeal for funds yesterday, stated that while the generous donations already received were very much appreciated the committee was somewhat disappointed with the response from the business men and citizens of Victoria.

Contributions to the fund have been coming in slowly. The total of $5,905 has been reached. Previously acknowledged was $5,230. With contributions from Mr. Norman Yarrow, Mr. D. R. Angus and Mrs. Armstrong, and sale of tickets and posters, $5,905 has been collected. This is just about half the objective, and there is only two more weeks before the three-day celebration will commence.

During this period the committee hopes to raise the full amount. Already $300 worth of posters have been sold and $300 worth of admission tickets. The committee appeals to the citizens of Victoria to support the celebration by purchase of tickets or posters, or by subscription to the Jubilee Fund. These subscriptions can be left at the Colonist or Times offices, or the headquarters room, 1107 Government Street, or at the City Treasury Department.

Liquor Board Not Required to Give Reason for Action

VANCOUVER, June 20.—"Under the Act, when the Liquor Board cancels a licence it does not seem to me that it need give any reason," commented Chief Justice Gordon Hunter today in adjourning to tomorrow the application by A. J. Lake, proprietor of the Commercial Hotel beer parlor, for an order directing Commissioner Hugh Davidson to reissue a beer licence for those premises.

Mr. A. G. Hodgson, counsel for Lake, contended that the licence was taken up an hour before the board formally made the order, and adjournment was given to allow counsel for the board to meet this contention.

SCOTCH TEAM IS BANQUETED

BURNS CLUB, OF VICTORIA, ENTERTAINS VISITING FOOTBALLERS AT DINNER

Mr. Alex. Peden Assures Players That Victoria Select Team Will Put Up Hard Game

The Scottish football team, on Canadian tour, was entertained at a banquet and dance given by the Burns Club of Victoria in the Chamber of Commerce last night. Mr. John Hosie, chairman, extended a hearty welcome to the players who will meet the Victoria picked team on Wednesday at the Royal Athletic Park. "We have great admiration for you as brilliant exponents of the glorious game of football," Mr. Hosie stated.

Colonel J. Lightbody, D.S.O., T.D., in proposing the toast to the guests, gave reminiscences of the early days of football in the international league. He said he was sorry that the provincial teams were not so strong as he believed; that even wider interest in football would be created if these teams were stronger. He called to mind some of the famous old players, some of whom the officials and players of the touring team remembered quite well.

MANAGER RESPONDS

In replying to the toast, Mr. Campbell, manager of the Scottish team, said it was very gratifying to be among people who so greatly appreciated Burns. In speaking of his team, he said there was no doubt but that this was the strongest body of players who had toured Canada. "We have the flower of Scotland on our team and Scotland has A standard."

Bobbie Burns was gaining in appreciation all over the world and the commemoration of the last anniversary was made note of in nearly every newspaper in the world. This had never been done before. "I hope to see the appreciation for Burns grow as the years pass, and am glad you are strong here."

Before closing his remarks, he said that it was with great delight he had met Mr. J. G. Brown, who was so close a friend of Mr. J. K. McDowell, secretary of the Scottish Football Association.

HOME TEAM TOASTED

Mr. J. G. Brown proposed the toast to the Victoria select team. He said he was glad to have met some of his fellow countrymen on the Scottish football team and was delighted their deportment was such that he considered them some of the finest gentlemen he had met. Their every action reflected credit on Scotland.

He told the touring team that Victoria had been careful in its selection of players and that the touring team would find them to be good sports.

In reply to this toast, Mr. Alex. Peden said: "We have picked the very finest team we could possibly get, and hope to do the same as the Toronto team, not so much because of the honor of winning but so we can see you again, just as you intend to see Toronto to wipe out that lone defeat on your tour.

"We will play our hardest so we can see just how the game of football should be played. We have picked men on the distinct understanding that they live up to the ethical standard of football."

Mr. William Nichol said Burns' grace, Mr. Robert Morrison, Burns' Law, Major John Frith and Tom Scott, the latter of the visiting team, rendered solos. Trainer E. McGavern gave a recitation.

Canadian Chamber of Commerce Offers Prize to Competitors for Design

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, which within the past year or two has been organized throughout the Dominion, is offering a prize of $100 for a design for a suitable crest to be used by the organization. The competition is open to all, and should set forth the objects of the Canadian-wide body.

As an assistance to competitors the object of the body, as set out in the constitution of the Chamber, is called to attention: This is as follows:

"The object shall be to stimulate and maintain a vigorous Canadian National sentiment and to co-operate in promoting the efficiency and in extending the usefulness of the various Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce throughout the Dominion, and to secure unity and harmony of action in reference to commercial usages, customs and laws; and especially that a united opinion should be obtained so as to secure a proper and careful consideration by legislative bodies of questions pertaining to the financial, economical, commercial, industrial and agricultural interests of the country at large."

Any further particulars with respect to the contest may be obtained at the office of the Chamber of Commerce in this city.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce will meet in convention in Vancouver this fall. The gathering will open September 12, and ends two days later, thus working in well with the great gathering of the Pacific Foreign Trade Congress, which is to meet in this city.

ST. JOHN, Nfld., June 20.—The monoplane Joan of Arc, in command of Major F. S. Cotton and engaged in the Nungesser-Coli search, landed yesterday afternoon on Quidi Vidi Lake, on the outskirts of Lake St. John.

Major Cotton stated he had been over a considerable stretch of country between "Come-by-Chance," in Placentia Bay, and Port Blandford, in Bona Vista Bay, but had found no trace of the missing airmen. The plane left Quidi Vidi soon after landing to continue the search further west.

Attitude of Big Powers on Naval Limitation Question

Conference Just Opened Attempting to Complete Work Started at Washington in 1922—Terms of Existing Treaty Are Recited

GENEVA, June 20.—The object of the Three-Power Naval Conference, which opened today, is to complete the work of limitation of naval strength begun at the Five-Power Conference in Washington. There a treaty was signed in 1922 limiting the tonnage of battleships for the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy, limiting also the total tonnage of aircraft carriers and limiting the size of individual cruisers to ten thousand tons. The Washington Treaty laid down the now famous ratio of 5-5-3 and resulted in the scrapping of a large number of battleships.

By the treaty Great Britain was permitted to have a total battleship tonnage of 525,000 tons, the United States the same tonnage, Japan 315,000, and France and Italy each 175,000 tons. The giving to France and Italy of a lower ratio than to the others caused in later years considerable criticism, especially in France, where it was openly stated that France could never accept a similar ratio for auxiliary craft, destroyers and submarines, which are to be treated at this conference.

The Washington Treaty fixed 35,000 tons standard displacement as the maximum tonnage of each capital ship to be constructed by the signatories, and fixed the maximum calibre of guns aboard at sixteen inches. The total tonnage for aircraft carriers was placed at 135,000 tons for the United States and Great Britain, 91,000 tons for Japan and 60,000 tons each for France and Italy.

Although the treaty fixed the maximum tonnage of individual cruisers at 10,000, and the maximum gun calibre aboard at eight inches, no limit was placed upon the number of cruisers that any signatory could construct. And one result of this fact has been that both Great Britain and Japan have built up cruiser forces in excess of that of the United States.

FORTIFICATING

A feature of the Washington Conference was the United States acceptance of a Japanese proposal to maintain the status quo with respect to fortifications and naval bases in the Pacific Ocean. This meant that the United States could not increase its fortifications or naval bases in the Philippines, Guam and the Aleutian Islands, though Americans are free to add to their fortifications in the Hawaiian Group and in the islands adjacent to the coast of the United States, Alaska and the Panama Canal zone.

In an address delivered at New Haven, Conn., December 29, 1922, Mr. Charles E. Hughes, who was Secretary of State and head of the American delegation to the Washington Conference, voiced his regret that an American proposal for the limitation of auxiliary warcraft was not accepted by the conference. The American delegation had proposed a ration in auxiliary craft similar to that recognized by the treaty for capital ships. The failure to settle the problem of auxiliary craft at Washington induced President Coolidge to convoke today's conference in order that naval limitation shall be extended to all categories of warships. Naval experts here are quite ready to admit that unless the seal of limitation effects all warships there will inevitably be increased construction by nations of those warships upon which no restrictions are laid.

The Washington Treaty remains in force until December 31, 1936. In case none of the contracting powers shall have given notice two years before that date of its intention to terminate the treaty, it shall continue in force until the expiration of two years from the date on which notice of termination is given by one of the Powers.

ACHIEVES OTHER THINGS

The Washington Conference achieved other things besides the limiting of capital ships and aircraft carriers. It arranged a treaty concerning the use of submarines and poison gases; it defined principles and policies in matters concerning China, including Chinese Customs tariffs; it elaborated the Shantung Treaty between China and Japan, whereby the Province of Confucius was restored to Chinese sovereignty; and finally, and in the opinion of many foreign statesmen, most important of all, it got rid of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and substituted therefor a four-power treaty between the United States, the British Empire, France and Japan, which, based upon their insular possessions and dominions in the Pacific Ocean, is really an instrument for the maintenance of peace in the Pacific.

Mr. Hughes has given as one of the main reasons for the success of the Washington Conference the fact that it was restricted in naval matters to a small group of Powers who were dealing with problems in which they had a common interest. It is believed that the same remark may apply to the present conference, where the three big naval Powers concerned are supposed to have a common interest in reaching an understanding concerning auxiliary warships and a common desire to avoid a naval race which involves enormous expenditure in the construction of warships.

Although the United States, Great Britain and Japan are practically in accord concerning the method of limiting navies, their position on this question is at variance with that of France and Italy, who declined the American invitation to participate in the parley, but who were later requested to send observers, provided they could not agree to the full-fledged participation.

As was revealed during the sessions of the League of Nations Commission, which has been preparing the agenda for a general disarmament conference, the "Big Three" naval Powers believe that the total naval tonnage of any one Power should be distributed definitely at the time of signing the treaty into categories, or types, of warships, as, for example, so much tonnage for cruisers, so much for destroyers and so much for submarines.

TWO POWERS AGREED

But France and Italy disclosed themselves as tenacious advocates of the so-called "total tonnage" system. That is to say, they want freedom to apportion their total tonnage to the type of warships they deem best suited to the protection of their national independence and the safeguarding of their security. At the final meetings of the Leagues preparatory commission, France made what she termed a compromise proposal, framed with a purpost of conciliation, but which British and American experts declared to be unsatisfactory. The proposal was that France would disclose the aggregate tonnage she expected to build in a particular type of warship, but that this distribution of her total tonnage could be modified provided one year's notice was given of an intended departure from the treaty allocation.

An Italian proposal went less far than the French. It was that all Powers should be left free to apportion their total naval tonnage in the manner best meeting their national needs, with the understanding, however, that six months before laying the keel of a warship a description of the ship should be filed with the League of Nations.

The British delegates, who were really voicing the views of the Americans as well, found both French and Italian suggestions inadequate, and unacceptable on the ground that they gave an element of uncertainty to all future naval building programmes. They contended that an agreement was only possible and, indeed, practicable, if all the important naval Powers know exactly not only the total tonnage of their fellow nations, but also the exact distribution of this tonnage into particular types of warships. Put concretely, England would want to know how many submarines France and Italy intended to construct in order that she herself might reach a decision as to her own needed submarine strength in the Mediterranean to protect her trade route to India, and in the North Sea to protect the coasts of her homeland.

The League Commission separated without reaching any accord on this vital aspect of disarmament with the hope that Governments would find means of attaining an agreement, or that the Three-Power Conference would hasten a general accord by bringing about a treaty between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.

The ardent hope is being expressed here that this conference will be more successful than an attempt launched by the League of Nations three years ago to secure an extension of the principles of the Washington Treaty to the smaller naval Powers who were not signatory to that treaty.

MEETING IN ROME

This League attempt took the form of a meeting in Rome of a special commission on which sat representatives of the smaller States who possessed battleships, including Soviet Russia, which was invited, not as a small Power, but as a nation whose naval strength was considerably reduced. So many reservations were made by the participating Powers to the draft convention formulated, and so high were the demands for naval tonnage that the League saw little use in endeavoring to proceed in the plan of extending the Washington principles. Argentina, Chili, Denmark, Greece, Holland, Norway, Soviet Russia and Turkey, all were invited to send delegates, and all accepted except Turkey. Argentina sent merely an observer and the representative of Uruguay, who was present by virtue of the fact that his country was a member of the Permanent Military Commission of the League, announced that he must refrain from expressing any opinion on the subjects to be treated.

As during the recent sessions of the League Commission which is seeking to prepare for a general disarmament conference, the sessions at Rome revealed that many Powers were opposed to allocating their tonnage into types or categories of warships, insisting that they must have perfect freedom to build those warships they thought best adapted to their national requirements.

Soviet Russia insisted upon a total battleship tonnage of 280,000 tons. Moscow's delegate announced, however, that he would only sign a treaty which expressly stated that the Straits of the Dardanelles and Bosphorous should be closed to all passage of warships, that the entrance to the Baltic Sea by the Sund and the Belts should be forbidden to warships of countries which had no coastline on the Baltic, and finally that the Korean Straits, which played a historic role during the Russa-Japanese War, should be completely demilitarized.

A MEMORIAL THEATRE

On March 6, 1926, the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-upon-Avon, which was opened in 1879, was destroyed by fire. The event evoked a widespread appeal for the reconstruction of this memorial on a larger, better and more worthy plan and the required funds are now in progress of being collected. The new theatre is to cost £100,000, at least that is the original estimate. The probability is that £150,000 will be required and as well a substantial amount for endowment purposes, perhaps £250,000 in all. The movement for reconstruction was started within nineteen days after the burning of the theatre in an appeal made through the British press by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, the Prime Minister; Mr. J. Ramsay Macdonald, the leader of the Labor Party; Lord Oxford and Asquith, and Mr. Thomas Hardy. The appeal was made to the people of the British Isles, the Dominions and the United States.

Already substantial contributions to the fund have been received from England, Australia and India and certain other parts of the Empire have subscribed, but so far there has not been a large measure of support from Canada. This may be explained by the fact that the matter has been given very little publicity here and Mr. A. D. Flower, the chairman of the Governors of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, has not yet visited this Dominion with the purpose of arousing public interest. Mr. Flower has been in the United States recently and Americans are making a definite effort to contribute a quota of the sum required. Canada should not be behind-hand in this particular, nor will this country be when more about what is proposed is known. The matter has advanced very substantially and architects' plans, in competition for the new building, to the number of 180 have just been received by the Governors at Stratford. From these plans six will be selected and the architects responsible for them will enter a final competition, the winning member of which will be entrusted with the work.

In this community alone there must be many who would be willing to subscribe something, no matter how little, to the building of the new Shakespeare Memorial Theatre—willing in this way to pay their tribute to the greatest name in the literature of the world. That tribute can be very fittingly expressed in Shakespeare's own town. It is one in which every part of the Empire, to say nothing of the English-speaking world as a whole, should participate, for the great poet is a common heritage. Those who want to participate can do so by sending contributions to The Treasurer, The Shakespeare Memorial Fund, The Midland Bank, Stratford-upon-Avon, England. The claims of Stratford as the site of the reconstructed memorial are admirably summed up by Sir Frank Benson, the noted Shakespearian actor, who says:

> Shakespeare is the master-singer of England, of the Empire, of the world, just because the strongest inspiration of his genius all through his work came from his West-Midland home, where he first learned that "one touch of nature makes the whole world kin." Here, and nowhere else, can be the proper site of the chief Shakespeare shrine—in a yeoman centre of England, an exchange and mart for centuries of the goods and the ideas of the Anglo-Celtic people; within sight of the old Guild Church, close to Shakespeare's old school, next-door neighbor to the graceful spire of the Parish Church, rising from the elms where the rooks still hold their parliament; by the mill that has hummed its song of the wheat to the accompaniment of Avon waters since Roman days, and earlier; within sight of the Cotswolds; within hail of Warwick, Kenilworth, Coventry, Tewkesbury, Evesham, Worcester and Gloucester, and many a place of historic memory.

CHANGING LONDON

For most of the last century and the first ten years of this the Ratcliff Highway and the Whitechapel Road of Britain's metropolis had the worst of reputations. Fifty years ago evil infested these streets and made them notorious. It was in this neighborhood of East London in Petticoat Lane, later christened Middlesex Street, that the horrible atrocities of "Jack the Ripper," were perpetrated, and here it was that the epidemic of garotting in London, which was only put down by merciless sentences with application of the cat-o'nine-tails, had its origin. Indeed any self-respecting citizen gave the neighborhood a wide berth if compelled to be abroad in London after dark. Now all this is changed. Mr. J. A. R. Cairns, the magistrate who sits at Thames Police Court in Stepney, is today a stout defender of these once fearsome districts. "The Ratcliff Highway is quite respectable now," he said in a recent interview. "Whitechapel Road is a handsome and prosperous street, where you can see all the latest fashions and can buy all the best there is to eat, drink, read or wear. In fact there is not a single street in all the East End, except perhaps one or two back areas on Hoxton, in which I would not feel myself safe at any hour of the day or night."

Mr. Pett Ridge, the well-known humorist and author, who makes London and Londoners the subject of nearly everything he writes, also comes to the rescue of the once (deservedly) maligned East End. He says: "We have in the East End, the most law-abiding, industrious and self-respecting population that could be desired. The slums that used to disgrace the district have been largely cleared away, and, although there is still much overcrowding, there is neither crime in the East End, nor disorder, nor misery. The reason is that the people are better than they were ten and twenty years ago. They are more self-respecting, more industrious. There is less drunkenness, more friendliness. There are more things to interest and please the minds of the poorest, and more time and means to enjoy them. The standard of living has gone up, and men and women have more chance than they ever had to lead a decent life."

There are other parts of London with better reputations, in which slums and all the wretchedness and privation which accompanies them can be found, but Whitechapel and Stepney, with their well-built houses nearly a century old, their wide streets, open spaces, low roofs and unobstructed skyline, were not intended to be slum areas when well-to-do merchants and tradesmen lived in Leman Street and Great Prescott Street, and sea captains had their comfortable homes off the Commercial Road. Whitechapel and Stepney and Shadwell have had their bad days, but are now decent, law-abiding neighborhoods. Even Limehouse, made famous by Mr. Lloyd George's anti-war speeches against the British aristocracy, has changed for the better.

RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

The bounds of religious liberty in Britain were widened more nearly to the Canadian circumference when the Roman Catholic Relief Bill, not much commented upon at the time, was passed not long since in the British House. This belated Act abolishes many obselete and unfair prohibitions of Roman Catholic practices, some of them dating from Edward VI's time. It allows Roman Catholic processions on the streets such as the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal in 1910 and in Chicago last year. If atheists may spout in Trafalgar Square, it was sensibly argued, and the Salvation Army may parade the streets flying its flag of "blood and fire," why should not the Roman Catholic also express his faith by carrying the uplifted Host? London indeed might witness the big Congress before five years have passed.

One of Canada's dearest treasures, won earlier than Confederation but in that pact irrevocably guaranteed, was full religious liberty. In illustration, witness the Mormon Temple at Cardston, Alberta, or the Buddhist Temple in Vancouver or the Sikh Temple in Victoria. Such a furore as is disturbing the United States as to the religion of Governor Al. Smith could never arise in Canada. Already she has had two Roman Catholic Premiers. Her history and genius are opposed to making any brand of religion either a requirement or a bar to citizenship of high degree or low.

The emphasis that is being given to reverence as foremost in national life, by the observance in front of the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa—the Governor-General himself presiding—and in ten thousand communities across the continent, of a religious service on the Sunday following Confederation Day, will on the one hand demonstrate the essential unity of all men of reverence and also the advantage of the fullest liberty for its expression in varied religious forms.

Commenting on Britain's break with Russia, The London Sunday Times says: "There are those, too, who argue that the rupture will spell a serious loss of trade just at the time when we need all the trade we can get. . . . No nation loses anything worth having when it vindicates its self-respect."

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

We have been reading lately two very interesting theses or hypotheses propounded by two men. The first thesis or hypothesis was written by a mere newspaper man; the second by a learned scientist and philosopher. The newspaper man of speculative trend of mind declared that if the people of this day were compelled to begin life without the knowledge of inventions they have inherited from the people of other days, eight men would be required to do the work now being done by one man.

* * *

That interesting statement engendered a speculative thread of thought in our own mind. It just happened that we read it a day or two after we had paid a visit to the electric power house of the B. C. Electric Railway Company at Jordan River and were introduced to the powerful and tireless motors which create or collect the power that turns the wheels of industry in this city and illuminates the houses and streets of the city. After reading the statement we remembered something else written by one who was first a great journalist and afterwards a great writer of stories of absorbing interest.

* * *

In one of his books (we are not quite sure what book it was, but think it was "Nicholas Nickleby") Charles Dickens has described the experiences and the privations of two fugitives or wayfarers who were striving to escape from the rigors of authority in a northern county of England. Finally one of the tramps conducted his companion to an eminence, directed his attention to a glow in the sky and said it was a reflection of the "lights of London," which meant that they were within measurable distance of the end of their long journey.

* * *

London in those days was either lighted by gas or by tallow dips, probably by a combination of the two illuminating agents. In either case the mere lighting of those lamps involved a great deal of labor, for the job of a lamplighter, who carried his ladder with him from post to post, was no sinecure, and the result of his labors would not be considered a brilliant illumination at the present day. The lights of London today are probably all lit by touching a button or by some operation quite as simple and as easily done. It would be an interesting experience today if one could be transported by a fairy to the eminence from which the traveller and his companion looked at the glow in the sky which reflected the lights of London and beheld the illumination which reflects the lights of London at the present day.

* * *

If we were vouchsafed such an experience we are sure the question would arise in our mind: How many men would be required under the old conditions to produce such a blaze upon the streets of London and such a glow in the sky over London as are produced by the hand of one man with modern inventions and modern machines at his service? In some cases at least one modern man can do the work that hundreds of ancient men would have been required to do.

* * *

The city of Victoria is not yet by any means as big as the city of London, but there is one respect at least in which Victoria is quite as up-to-date as London. There is no "great white way" in this city, but it is an extremely well-lit city. In the night anyone returning from the country may see a very perceptible glow in the sky reflected from the street lights. But for the motors in the machinery hall at Jordan River, which are connected by wire with the lamps on the poles on our streets, the labor of a small army of men would be necessary to produce such an illumination.

* * *

The thesis or hypothesis of the learned scientist or philosopher was quite different from the thesis or hypothesis of the simple newspaperman. The learned authority stated that the evolution of mankind, which has been proceeding for almost countless ages, is now completed. Physically and mentally man (and doubtless woman, too) can advance no farther. He has reached the end of his evolutionary tether. He is as nearly perfect as he is ever likely to be. But at that he has no reason to be ashamed of his achievements. He first became conscious of life (if indeed he was conscious of life at all then) as a slimy and invertebrate thing in the slums of the sea, and look at him today, with legs and hands and a stiff backbone, and a head, with the brains of a god in that head, firmly erect on that backbone. Then consider the products of his head and his hands and the knowledge of the heavens above his head and the earth beneath his feet that he has accumulated and stored away in that head.

* * *

But when the end of a road is reached, the wayfarer, however godlike his attributes, must either stop or turn back. Under the laws which govern the universe there is no such thing or abstraction as static. The natural order is either progression or retrogression. Countless other worlds than ours are in process of creation or declension. That rule applies to the creatures living in those worlds, if there are any sensient beings living on them. The thesis of the learned scientist is that this world has reached its ultimate point of progress and that the same thing applies to the inhabitants of this world. When we consider the political and social conditions prevailing on the earth today, we are inclined to think there must be something in that theory.

CANCER

Sir,—My attention has been called to an article upon "Cancer," in your Sunday's edition, which merits consideration and comment. While entertaining the highest respect for the eminent authority quoted, permit me, a humble and relatively unknown factor in the medical profession, under the excuse that "doctors always differ," to express an opinion diametrically opposed to that expressed by Dr. Evans, as stated in the article alluded to. And I am not alone in my stand upon this question. The tide of opinion has begun to swing in the management of this disease. The prophets of yesterday are now realizing their visions in the developments of today; a former president of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, stated many years ago, that in fifty years a cure for cancer would be found. The late Sir Alfred Pearce Gould, formerly surgeon in charge of the cancer wards of Middlesex Hospital, stated that "there is a cure for cancer other than operative procedure." Many other authorities could be given to support these views.

Dr. Evans states that the cause of cancer has not been found. Let me modestly differ from this, and state that in the opinion of many of equal standing with him, that they have no hesitancy in stating that the cause of cancer has been found, but it was not found by looking through the microscope, but by a close study of the habits of the cancer victims. An exhaustive analysis of the conditions and habits of these unfortunate patients has been made by Mr. Barker, of London, and his conclusions have been accepted by many of the most prominent of the medical profession throughout the world, conspicuous among these is Sir Arbuthnot Lane, consulting surgeon to Guy's Hospital. These conclusions are, briefly:

(1) Cancer is not a local disease (except in rare cases of "cancer" of the skin.)

(2) It is a constitutional condition, caused by a slow poisoning of the blood.

(4) The condition which is usually designated "the cancer," is but the local manifestation of the general systemic poisoning.

(5) The causes of this systemic poisoning, which generally has a prolonged history, are one, poisons absorbed from within the body; two, poisons taken into the body from without, principally with our food; and, three, vitamine starvation, the latter, possibly, the most important.

(6) If cancer is the centralization of the general toxic condition, and but the product of such constitutional poisoning, the removal by the knife without the consideration of, and the removal of the fundamental systemic condition, cannot be expected to result in a cure.

Nor does it. We have but to open our eyes to present conditions to see corroborative evidence of Mr. Barker's conclusions. The Journal of the American Medical Associations, a recognized authority in these matters, has recently stated that with the best available skill in the surgical treatment of cancer, after an interval of five years, but twenty per cent of the patients were alive. Neither the X-ray, radium nor the almost miraculous developments of modern surgery have succeeded in checking the ever-increasing mortality rate from this dread disease. In fact, we have the statement from Dr. Buckley, founder of the Cancer Hospital of New York, that the mortality rate is increasing, until today it is the greatest plague which menaces civilization.

You will please excuse me, Mr. Editor, for taking so much of your space, but a disease that kills one out of every seven men who die over forty-five years of age, and one out of every five of women dying between the ages of forty-five and sixty-three, is surely one which demands more consideration than it has received at the hands of the public, especially when we reflect that 5,000 of those now living in Victoria will pass from this sublimary sphere through the agency of this disease unless a radical change be made in their habits of life. Is it not high time that some mass effort be made towards a better understanding and the development of means of prevention? Could we not follow the course which has proved so successful in dealing with tuberculosis? If cancer is preventible, why not prevent it? Cancer is a disease of civilization. It is practically unknown among aborigenes. Civilization has made it, civilization can prevent it.

AN INTERRUPTED MEETING

Sir,—On June 16 the British Union for Abolition of Vivisection held its annual meeting in London. Sir Francis Blake, Bart., C.B., D.L., acted as chairman and the speakers included Mr. George Bernard Shaw, the Countess of Tankerville, Lieut.-Commander the Hon. J. M. Kenworthy, M.P., Mr. J. Bromley, M.P., and Dr. W. R. Hadwen, J.P.

The public meetings of the above-named society have a capacity attendance, and, when Mr. Shaw is announced to speak, there is invariably a long queue of expectant listeners who are anxious to gain admittance to the building. It appears that in this capacity audience were some two hundred medical students of both sexes (a deplorable fact). They are prone to attend meetings of this nature.

Now, this letter is not intended as a defence of the principal speaker, Mr. G. B. Shaw. He is quite familiar with his subject and is well able to look after himself. When we read, however, that the two hundred prospective medical practitioners (by whom we should greatly prefer not to be medically treated) tried to hinder Mr. Shaw from speaking by the use of cat-calls, rattles and whistles, we naturally wonder why they were so anxious that he should not be heard.

If vivisection, which is carried on by means of vast public and private benefactions, is a desirable occupation, conducted by responsible people and producing valuable results, why not let us hear all about it? Anti-vivisectionists have always pleaded for the policy of The Open Door, and a fair and square representation of both sides of the question. Mr. Shaw and others were only there to tell the audience something about human and animal experimentation. The medical students should have been gratified that such well-known persons were there to give information.

The natural inference is that they were telling something that the vivisectors and their kindred spirits would have preferred to keep secret. Abuse, whether it pertains to individual, party or national differences, is a good argument; in fact, it is no argument at all and hurts none but those who indulge in it. It often results from fear and illogical minds find it a popular method of procedure. If the vivisectors and their medical supporters were holding a public meeting, is to be supposed for one moment that opponent members of the medical profession (and there are many of them) or any anti-vivisectionist, would try to halt their meeting by indulging in vulgar abuse and rowdyism?

If there is nothing wrong about vivisection, why be so afraid of hearing it openly discussed? We feel able to supply an answer and do so! If the public knew all the facts, as we would like them to do, we could trust them to give a very decided and definite answer in favor of the total abolition of vivisection.

The detailed account of this interrupted meeting will be received in due course and will prove interesting reading, but we fail to see that any credit redounds to those who tried to prevent Mr. George Bernard Shaw and others, from being heard on Thursday last.

FIRE WORSHIPPERS

In a strange, bright world, ocean-washed, dew-pearled, touched with splendors of ages long past, there the first men went and their wonder blent with their awe at the unknown vast. For the dawning light and the starry night, and the whole of the mighty plan of the cosmic scheme was a misty dream to the groping primal man. But he left the clods while he wrought fair gods of the mist and the sun and the rain, for the soul aspires in its wild desires to a cause for its rapture and pain. Till his worship came to a dancing flame, gleaming gold as the sun's own light, and with priest and fane he proclaimed the reign of the Fire God, red and bright. Now the world is old and men's hearts are cold, eyes grow blind to the Earth's delight; but the Fire God still makes their pulses thrill where the hearth fires dance tonight!

SHAKESPEARE'S THEATRE

Dear Sir, or Madam, Up in Stratford town
A little, famous, theatre is burnt down.
A little place, but not of little fame,
Where nigh on fifty years the players came
To honor him of whom our blood has learnt
One half its English pride. That place is burnt.

No more it stands by Avon's meadows green,
No more on April evenings will be seen
Taking its mimic world that living throng
Of men and women that are Shakespeare's song.
They have no home. They wander up and down,
Ghosts, without any home, in Stratford town—
Who should be housed each as a queen or king
For ever by his dust, who knew to sing,
Upon their lips, the lesson and delight
Of earth, till fall of unattempted night.

A citizen, whose name is Stratford's yet,
Gave them a home, where from the world have met,
These fifty years, bright companies upon
A pilgrimage of beauty. It is gone.
And now what once one gave, we are bidden all
To give, lest in his England we should fall
Something from honor, something from our own.
Quarrels we have, but here no word is known
Among us of dispute: 'tis ours to give
The life he gave us means whereby to live.

And should the friends of Shakespeare's England take
Our pleasure as their own for Shakespeare's sake,
They do but share a province of the mind
An English yeoman charted for mankind.

Dear Sir, or Madam, Who would dare to claim
Good-will or charity in Shakespeare's name?
Not we nor any in the commonweal
May speak so high. Our crusade has the seal
Of majesty, the majesty that knew
Homage from him, our poet, such as few
Or none of princes chronicled have heard;
It has our Dorset master's kindling word;
It has consent of policies; and now
When Shakespeare called his countrymen to share
The cost of revelation, they were there.
The playhouse is burnt down; then here we cry
"Long live the playhouse."—Friends, your Servant I.

VISION

(Dedicated to my friend, M. C. Robinson, who lost his sight in the Great War)

Sightless, yes, but you have shown to me
A greater beauty which I failed to see.
Upon a landscape touched with light and shade
The harmony of color in a woodland glade;
The lovliness of wild flowers as they peep
From out the grasses, or some crevice deep
Within the rocks that form a background bold
For broom in all its blaze of yellow gold.
The picture that those gem-like islands make,
Resting on the bosom of the lake,
And in the depths of shady pool or stream
You see those scenes of which I only dream:
When you describe a mountain capped with snow
That's lightly brushed with sunset's rosy glow,
I know my eyes have but beheld a part
Of those grand pictures drawn by nature's art.
I ponder, and a thought comes to my mind,
It is not you—It must be I—that's blind.

Final Arrangements for Invalids From China

VANCOUVER, June 20.—With the arrival from the Orient on Sunday of Major E. C. Beddows, of the Imperial Army, final arrangements were made for the caring of invalid soldiers from China in Vancouver.

Major Beddows arrived on R.M.S. Empress of Canada and was accompanied by a sergeant and two orderlies. He will have charge of the military men who will arrive on a later ship from China. The actual medical attendance, it is understood, will be given by the regular Shaughnessy Hospital staff, Major Beddows being the military officer in charge of the men.

On the ship with Major Beddows were two British soldiers from the Chinese front, Lieutenant T. P. Newman and Captain Spear. The former carries the scars of many wounds received in action at Shanghai. He is returning to England.

Captain Spear is an intelligence officer.

HEROIC EFFORT FAILS TO SAVE VICTOR BASSO

Nineteen-Year-Old Boy Is Drowned in Pike Lake Sunday When Suddenly Seized With Cramp

JAMES CROW TRIES TO SAVE COMPANION

Cuthbert Baugh Allen, With Improvised Grappling Device, Raises Body to Surface After Long Search

Despite the heroic efforts of James Crow, a friend, Victor J. L. Basso, aged nineteen, of 2623 Rock Bay Avenue, was drowned when swimming in Pike Lake about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The youth was swimming in the highland lake with three companions when he was suddenly taken with a cramp. James Crow, who was nearest, made a desperate effort to hold the sinking man and in an exhausted condition barely made shore after Basso had sunk.

Messrs. Frank and E. Viggers, two brothers, who were also in the swimming party, did what they could to recover Basso's body, but failed. The Viggers brothers did not know what had happened until Crow struggled ashore and between gasps told of the tragedy.

The Provincial Police were notified and Constables Harvey, Kelly and Jacklin were dispatched to the scene. They undertook dragging operations but the body was not recovered until ten o'clock last night when Cuthbert Baugh Allen, with improvised grappling apparatus, succeeded in raising it.

Basso was educated at the North Ward School and when he left High School was apprenticed as a machinist at the Victoria Machinery Depot Limited. He was prominently identified with baseball, lacrosse, basketball and other sports in the city.

He is survived by his father, Nicholas Basso, and one brother, Harry, in the city, and two sisters, Mrs. Burren, of Prince Rupert, and Mrs. V. Newell, of Spokane, Wash.

ESQUIMALT REEVE DISCUSSES NAME

Mr. James Elrick Gratified That Drydock Will Not Be Called "Songhees"

Reeve James Elrick, of Esquimalt, expressed satisfaction yesterday that the new Government drydock would not be named "Songhees." Credit is due to the Esquimalt Board of Trade and the Victoria Chamber of Commercee for the action taken. The huge graving basin will be officially opened and named "The Esquimalt Drydock," in an impressive ceremony on July 2.

Esquimalt Memorial Park will be officially opened by July 1 with the planting of a maple tree in conection with the Diamond Jubilee celebration. School children will take part in the ceremony. The park has been in use for some time now, but has never been officially opened.

A patriotic float, emblematical of Esquimalt as a naval and military base, will be entered in the parade on July 1. A model of the float was examined by the Council at the last meeting and met with approval from the councillors.

A letter was received from the Board of Trade in regard to the public beach at the foot of Admiral's Road. The beach is at present accessible only by a path running through Hudson's Bay Company property. The matter will be taken up by the Council in the near future.

TRIAL JUDGE UPHELD BY COURT OF APPEAL

Appeal in Canadian Bakeries, Ltd., Versus Bates Dismissed—Other Cases Are Considered

Canadian Bakeries, Ltd., v. Bates: Defendant in this case appealed from the judgment of a County Court judge who gave judgment for the plaintiff in the sum of $301 and costs. The claim arose from a collision on the 29th of November, 1926, about 5 o'clock in the evening. Plaintiff's truck was proceeding westerly. It was met by a car driving easterly. As the two vehicles came near each other, a third car approached, following that of plaintiff, signalled and attempted to pass between the two cars. He struck the east-bound car and was thrown against that of the plaintiff, both being ditched on their respective sides of the road. He proceeded. A car which was following a short distance behind that of the plaintiff then approached, to the driver of which the plaintiff's driver related the facts and asked him to follow and identify the car which caused the accident. He did so, the light of the defendant's car being still visible. The defendant claimed that it was not his car, but another, which ran into that of the plaintiff, and that he, defendant, had been ahead of the car which did the damage. The judge did not accept this, and gave judgment for plaintiff in the full amount claimed.

The Court of appeal agreed with the trial judge and dismissed the appeal with costs.

Mr. W. J. Baird for appellant; Mr. Cantelon for respondent.

Turner v. British Columbia Mutual Benefit Association: An appeal from the judgment of Mr. Justice Gregory and the verdict of a jury in favor of the plaintiff for $2,500. Mrs. Turner, wife of the plaintiff, took out a policy in the defendant concern on the 16th of February, 1926, at the age of forty-nine years. She died on the 15th of January, 1927, succeeding an operation for a fibroid growth internally. The defendant submitted that when application was made for the insurance, if the answers to the questions submitted showed a clean bill of health, medical examination would be dispensed with. It was disclosed in evidence that the insured had stated that (1) she was in good health at the time of application, and (2) that she had not been attended by a doctor for three years previously. Evidence was given at the trial that she had been treated medically at least twice, once for influenza, and once for a run-down condition. Death was due to a tumour, which medical witnesses stated might have been developing anywhere from nine months to four years. The evidence also disclosed that if the deceased had properly answered the questions on the application form, medical examination as to health would have been ordered before the insurance was granted.

The jury at the trial gave the husband, who sued on the policy, $2,500, and the judge, on recording judgment in accordance with the verdict, stated that he had a different opinion.

The Court of Appeal reserved judgment.

Mr. Donaghy for appellant; Mr. Gillespie for respondent.

In re Municipal Act and Robert McBride: The taxpayer, McBride, disposed of part of his land (which was in one parcel) as a right-of-way to a railway company, thus cutting his land in two. The property is being used as a truck garden, but the assessor valued the larger portion, 27.11 acres, as agricultural land, and the smaller, some four acres, as suitable for industrial purposes.

The point was that the assessor had no authority to divide the land for assessment purposes; that the existence of the right-of-way running through it did not make it two separate parcels for assessment purposes, and that therefore the land had been, under such assessment, wrongly placed on the roll.

The Court of Revision confirmed the assessment, but Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald allowed an appeal from that decision, and set aside the assessment.

On the appeal before the Court of Appeal yesterday, argument centred on the point whether the court had power to rectify the error of the assessor if he be found in error and assess the land as a whole. The larger piece is assessed at $500 per acre and the smaller at $1,000.

Judgment was reserved, but under the statute, must be given during the present settings of the court.

Mr. Donaghy for appellant municipality; Mr. A. J. Cowan for respondent.

OLD Frank Atwin's four score years do not hinder him from turning out some of the finest models of the Indian canoes made by the Indians of New Brunswick. This trail-hardened Malecite, photographed above, is holding a finished model of a canoe of which very little is known, being that of one of the sea-going vessels used by the Indians. In them they used to scout the shores of the Atlantic, and, according to old-timers, some exceedingly daring trips were made.

St. Andrews-by-the-Sea, where this old Indian lives with many of his tribe members, has an attachment of Indian romance and adventure that always appeals to the tourists to that part of New Brunswick. Many place names are drawn from the language of these people, the Canadian Pacific's hotel "Algonquin" at St. Andrews being a well-known example of this.

An old friend of Atwin's, John Nicholas, died last year at the age of 103 from an accident he met with while deer hunting. These hardy Indians are the descendants of Indians met by Champlain and De Monts in 1604, and still speak their old language and observe their old tribal customs.

Lorance Plaxton Drowned Swimming at Beaver Lake

Man Who Tried Desperately to Save Lad Modestly Disappears—Exhausted Boy Slipped From Shoulders of Unknown Man

Lorance A. Plaxton, aged sixteen, of 1 Holland Avenue, Saanich, was drowned when swimming at Beaver Lake about 3 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. The body was recovered and first aid methods applied, but life was found extinct.

Young Plaxton was swimming toward a float upon which his brother, Edward Plaxton, and Miss C. Kiddell were standing, when he became exhausted and cried out, "I'm tired. I can't make it."

"Go back to the shore. It's about twenty-five feet away," shouted the brother, who then dived in, swam to the struggling boy and tried to support him.

Another swimmer, who has not been identified, but who was clad in a red bathing suit, also swam out to lend assistance. Mr. P. E. Bevan jumped into the water, fully clothed, and made for the struggling swimmers, and Miss Lillian Plaxton, who was on shore, ran further up the beach to a group of men to get more help.

The red clad swimmer succeeded in getting young Plaxton on his shoulders, but the latter slipped off and sank.

Four boys swam out from shore, and the youngest of them, a lad of about fifteen years, brought the body to the surface twice before it was finally carried to the beach.

Several men, with the assistance of two nurses, applied first aid, but Dr. Moore, who arrived about forty-five minutes later, pronounced life extinct.

Sergt. Rankin, arriving later, took charge of the case, and in response to his call the city police sent out a pulmotor. It was unavailing.

The drowned youth is survived by his mother and father, six sisters, five brothers, a grandfather and grandmother and two uncles. He was born at Wainwright, Alta. The body is at Hayward's Funeral Chapel, where services will be held at 3:30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon. Burial will be at Ross Bay Cemetery.

The man in the red bathing suit, who made such a strenuous effort to save young Plaxton, disappeared without disclosing his name.

Municipalities

Many municipalities are by necessity or by choice proprietors and operators of public utilities. The chief commodities which they retail to their citizens are water and electricity. They must needs manufacture economically so that their rates and taxes may compare favourably with those of other municipalities. Moreover their street lighting and water for fire protection must be maintained at a high level of efficiency.

In evolving the present Fairbanks-Morse Diesel Engine which supplies power for pumping and for generating electric energy with such marked economy, and in building such other equipment as pumps, generators and motors which operate with unusually high efficiencies, this company has rendered a distinct service to municipalities. It has given us great pleasure to note the improvement in street lighting and in water pressure, and the low rates made possible in many towns for which we have supplied generating and pumping equipment.

In a similar way we serve practically every other branch of industrial activity in the Dominion. Any of our eleven branches is prepared to furnish machinery, equipment and supplies which are illustrated and briefly described in our 800-page general catalogue.

Prairie Members Visit This City

Victoria had a brief visit during the week-end from four prairie members of the House of Commons who had spent the past few days touring the Fraser Valley as guests of the district municipal councils and boards of trade.

They were Messrs. G. C. Coote, U.F.A., Macleod, Alta.; William Irvine, U.F.A.-Labor member for Calgary; A. F. Totzke, Liberal, Humboldt, and Malcolm MacLean, Liberal, Melfort, Sask.

They returned in order to attend the Vancouver Laurier Club luncheon today at the Vancouver Hotel.

Southern Interior	55	280
Prince George	31	44
Prince Rupert	20	21

National Parks Offer Delights for Tourists

There is probably no region in the world accessible to the tourist today which can compare in extent, in grandeur, and in beauty with the Canadian Rockies. Upon these glorious ranges Nature seems to have showered every gift needed for the perfect holiday land. Imagine an ocean of peaks—the majority of them over ten thousand feet in height and many towering two or three thousand feet more—extending four hundred miles west to the Pacific and over a thousand north to the Arctic. Imagine these crowned with the white foam of glaciers which slide down into the green trough of pine forests sweeping two-thirds of the way up to the mountain crests. Picture beautiful valleys, musical with waterfalls, brilliant with the wonderful wild-flower gardens which bloom only in an Alpine world, or set with magically tinted mountain lakes abounding in trout. Add to all this a sky of brilliant sunshine and glorious, life-giving, mountain air, and it is easy to see why each year increasing thousands turn to the Canadian Rockies. Ten thousand square miles of this great region, embracing the most beautiful scenic districts in the mountains, have been set aside by the Dominion Government as Canadian National Parks. There are seven of these great reservations: Rocky Mountains, Yoho, Glacier, Mount Revelstoke, Kootenay, Waterton Lakes and Jasper.

Los Angeles Aqueduct Dynamited by Ranchers

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—Owens Valley, scene of a water war between ranchers and the City of Los Angeles, today echoed defiance at peace officers who sought to fix responsibility for still another dynamiting apparently intended to damage the great aqueduct system upon which more than 1,000,000 persons depended for water.

The latest blasting occurred yesterday, when a charge of explosives planted in spite of the watchfulness of scores of armed guards, blew out a sixteen-foot section of a concrete-lined ditch two miles south of Lone Pine.

The blast, which was felt in Lone Pine, did not materially impair the operation of the aqueduct, officials reported.

The dynamiting was the fourth within a month in Owens Valley, where ranchers have sought reparations for land and water taken by the City of Los Angeles. The aqueduct, mostly a huge steel pipe, traverses two hundred miles of desert and mountain country to reach its water supply in Owens River. The ranchers claim damages for the water loss.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO SEE ECLIPSE

BRITAIN EXCITED OVER FIRST TOTAL ECLIPSE OF SUN THERE IN 200 YEARS

Tons of Instruments Shipped to Northern England—Scientists Send Expeditions

LONDON, June 20.—The total eclipse of the sun, which will take place over a portion of Great Britain in the early morning of June 29, has aroused the sporting blood of old Britain.

Bookmakers, realizing the national love of their countrymen to lay odds on everything from running horses to shooting stars, are taking a flyer into science and willing to wager all takers two to one that the rare phenomenon will not be visible on June 29. It is not that they doubt the predictions of the scientists, but that they base their judgment on the uncertain weather conditions prevailing at this time of year along the totality belt, a twenty-five-mile strip of country running northwest from Pwllheli, Carnarvon, Wales, through Giggleswick, York, to Hartlepool, in Durham.

It is 200 years since Britishers at home have had a chance to see the moon blot out the sun completely, and as the opportunity will not occur again until 1999, great preparations are being made for the event.

SPECIAL TRAINS

Scientists are sending six expeditions into Northern England, with tons of instruments, cameras and telescopes, while astronomers are taking every possible advantage of the twenty-four precious seconds of totality. Hundreds of thousands of others, including the Prince of Wales, are preparing for a layman's glimpse of the sun's corona.

Scores of special trains and airplanes will go northward from London and thousands of motor cars with eclipse excursionists. Resorts such as Blackpool, Hartlepool and Southport are preparing for a night of jollity preceding the eclipse, with band concerts starting at 3 p.m., and special facilities for dancing and drinking. Special licences have been granted publicans from 4 to 11 a.m. on "Eclipse Day."

Numerous scientific expeditions are also in Norway for the eclipse. The sun will be higher in the sky in Norway and the weather is expected to be better than in England.

They were discussing psychical research, spiritualism, haunted houses, etc.

"Do you believe that ghosts walk?" asked one ardent soul of an old gentleman.

"Of course, I do," he replied; "there's abundant proof of the fact—haven't you ever heard the 'Dead March?'"

CLUBMEN GREET FAMOUS PLAYERS

VICTORIA GYROS LAUD SCOTTISH FOOTBALLERS AT GATHERING HERE

Visitors View Butchart's Gardens, and Then Visit Mr. Thomas Walker's Strawberry Patch at Gordon Head

Victoria Gyros yesterday royally entertained the famous Scottish footballers, who are touring Canada, at the weekly club luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce Cafe. The visiting party, comprised of twenty-two men, were given an enthusiastic welcome as each in turn was introduced to the gathering.

Past President Archie Muir, of the Gyro Club, who presided, expressed the pleasure it afforded the Gyros to entertain the Scottish all-star football team. He said that the visitors were not only able exponents of the game of football, but represented a country to which Canada owed much gratitude. He pointed out that Scotland had given to Canada two outstanding men in the persons of Sir John A. Macdonald and the Hon. George Brown.

Mr. Robert Campbell, president of the Scottish Football Association, on behalf of the visitors, thanked the clubmen for their generous hospitality. He said that the party had been entertained in regal fashion since their arrival in Canada and that they had enjoyed every minute of the Gyro luncheon here.

A recitation entitled "The Shooting of Dan McGrew" was given by Mr. Ralph Berrill, and was enthusiastically received. Humorous stories and solos by Mr. E. H. Yardley elicited rounds of applause. Community singing was led by Gyro Bill Hudson, and the Gyro syncopators rendered much-appreciated selections.

AIDING ORPHANAGE HOME

On the motion of Gyro Harry B. Dawson, the club voted the sum of $213 to complete work which the club is doing at the Protestant Orphanage Home here.

Gyro Frank Burton announced that the Gyro Club would hold a dance next Friday, at Hamsterley Lakeside, Elk Lake, from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Members wishing to attend but who have not transportation are asked to communicate with Gyro Patterson, phone 351.

Mr. Justice W. M. Martin, of the Supreme Court of Saskatchewan, who will conduct an inquiry here into the claims of British Columbia for the return of the Dominion railway lands in the Peace River block, was a guest at the luncheon.

Following the gathering, the Gyros drove the visiting footballers to Butchart's Gardens, and thence to Rotarian Thomas Walker's strawberry patch at Gordon Head, where the famous Gordon Head berries were enjoyed.

$1,000 DAMAGES ASKED IN COURT

Fred Bossom Launches Action for Compensation for Injuries Sustained in Motor Accident

In an action launched yesterday in the County Court here before His Honor Judge P. S. Lampman, Fred Bossom, 2615 Shelbourne Street, a shipper for the Puget Sound Lumber Company, sought the sum of $1,000 as compensation for injuries which he received on July 17, 1926, when a tallyho of the Veterans' Sightseeing and Taxi Company, which was bringing back players and friends of the Five C's Cricket Club from a Saturday game at Duncan, ran off the road on the Malahat.

Bossom stated that he was thrown out of the motor bus, and suffered bodily injury and damage to his clothing. He was a patient in hospital for a period, as a result of the accident, and claimed that he was unable to work for seven weeks. He claimed that the injuries were caused by negligent driving of the bus driver, R. Hibberd, and that the tallyho was not in a safe and proper condition at the time of the accident.

The defendant company contended that Bossom was not thrown out of the motor bus, that voluntarily jumped out of the vehicle, and that if Bossom received any injuries, they resulted from his own voluntary act. Denial also was given to the allegations that Hibberd drove the tallyho in a negligent manner, and that the car was not in a safe and proper condition.

Further evidence for the defence will be submitted this morning, when hearing in the case will resume at 11 o'clock.

Mr. R. H. Pooley appeared for the plaintiff Bossom, while Mr. Alexis Martin represented the defendant company.

As a result of some years experimenting, the Horticultural Division of the Dominion Experimental Farms has succeeded in isolating a variety of gooseberry which is practically thornless and spineless and bears fruit of a commercial size. The new variety has been named Spinefree and the fruit is of good quality, rather thick-skinned, bright red in color when ripe, and entirely free of prickles.

RESTOCK LAKES WITH YOUNG TROUT

Superintendent of Cowichan Lake Hatchery Is Here to Place Game Fish in Local Waters

The British Columbia Division of the Dominion Department of Fisheries is engaged in its periodical restocking of the lakes and large quantities are being distributed from the Cowichan Lake hatchery.

Mr. J. H. Castley, the superintendent, arrived at the Dominion Hotel yesterday, with the idea of placing 20,000 cutthroat trout at Prospect Lake today. A similar quantity will go into Killarney Lake and 5,000 into Heals Lake.

Mr. Castley will return later with further stock, one of the lakes to be selected being Kemp's, in the Sooke district.

The superintendent has placed large quantities of fish at Comox Lake and in the Nanaimo lakes during the last few days. All these are cutthroat trout.

He expects shipment of Kamloops trout, which will be distributed to Island lakes during the month of July.

Visitors to Cowichan Lake have had an opportunity of seeing the excellent arrangements made at this well-known fish hatchery. So far there has been a satisfactory supply of water at the pools for the fry and young fish, but it is usual to experience some shortage by the end of the Summer season. A good supply is obtained from a spring back on the hillside, cool water suitable for rearing the young fish, at a lower temperature than that of the river below.

EASTERN STAR MEETING HERE

BRITISH COLUMBIA CHAPTERS ARE IN ANNUAL CONVENTION AT FORESTERS' HALL

About Five Hundred Delegates From All Parts of Province—Mayor Extends Greetings

A reception and dance last night at the Foresters' Hall, North Park Street, at which about six hundred people were present, was the opening episode in the great rally of members of the Grand Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star of British Columbia, which this morning begins its sixteenth annual convention here.

Approximately five hundred delegates of both sexes, with a preponderance of women, will register from all parts of the Province today, the majority having arrived here yesterday in time to attend the social part of the programme last evening. His Worship Mayor Pendray will extend Victoria's official welcome to the visiting delegates when they gather at the Foresters' Hall at 9:30 o'clock this morning, and the convention will close tomorrow evening with the banquet at 6:30 o'clock at the Hudson's Bay Company's dining-room, and the installation of officers.

The reception and dance last evening was an eminently succesful affair, with Heaton's Orchestra supplying the music. Owing to the early hour at which the proceedings open this morning the dance terminated on the stroke of twelve. The reception committee consisted of the worthy matrons of the entertaining chapters, the Queen City Chapter, Victoria, No. 17; Ruth Chapter, No. 22; Esquimalt Chapter, No. 41, and Oak Bay Chapter, No. 42. The hall was effectively decorated with roses and greenery. The proceedings were honored with a visit from the Most Worthy Grand Matron of the general grand chapter of the world, Sister Chadwick, of Seattle.

The sessions today and tomorrow will be presided over by the Worthy Grand Matron, Sister Ralthia Maclean, of Nakusp, B.C.

HAPPY GATHERING HELD BY BOWLERS

Burnside Lawn Bowling Club Holds Social and Dance in New Quarters

The members of the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club held high revel on Saturday evening when they entered with spirit into the first social and dance in their new hall on the club grounds, Burnside Road.

Delegate Jiggs, admirably represented by Mr. W. Washington, gave a hearty welcome to the invited guests as they arrived, and kept the proceedings lively from beginning to end. In the unavoidable absence of the president of the club (Mr. W. Boyd), Mr. F. Byng (vice-president), presided. Mr. Geo. Vallance, the secretary and originator of the club, in an admirable speech, as he drew the names of the members of the "Concrete Mixers' Union" and the club from Jiggs' silk hat, made fitting and complimentary reference to the splendid services each had rendered to the club, and especially as voluntary workers in the erection of the fine new clubhouse in which they were then assembled. The following are the members who were specially mentioned by Mr. Vallance in his racy remarks, and to each one of whom fell the honor of being a pioneer in the promotion of this ancient sport in the Burnside district: W. Washington, R. King, T. Halliday, J. Lauchlin, W. Tupman, A. Hallam, A. Stewart (who had presented the fire dogs and curb); E. Eastham, J. Renfrew, J. Cobb, J. Boyd, T. Main, F. Byng, J. Johnson and A. Finlay (who voluntarily built the handsome open stone fireplace and two flues), P. Hibben, C. Goodwin, F. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. R. Macnicol, J. Patterson, P. Handley, F. Moules, A. Pass, A. Boston, W. Tomes, A. Edwards, D. Vallance, and the members of the Ladies' Branch of the club.

An enlarged photograph of the late Mr. R. Huddleston, who was one of the foremost leaders of the club and superintended the erection of the new clubhouse, and whose recent death was deeply regretted by the members, was hung on the walls.

The chairman, Mr. J. Renfrew, and Mr. Patterson paid a very fitting tribute to the energetic services of Mr. Geo. Vallance as secretary of the club since its inception, and Mrs. A. Hallam, on behalf of the Ladies' Club, voiced their readiness to do all possible in assisting the development of the club in the future.

Subsequently, a large number of baskets of refreshments were disposed of, followed by a dance until midnight.

During the afternoon an interesting match took place between the Esquimalt and Saanich members of the club, the Esquimalt members proving victorious by 67 points to 47, the details being as follows:

Halliday, Meadows, Sinclair, Byng (skip)—19.

A. Hallam, Lauchlan, Cobb, Moules (skip)—13.

A. Arnup, J. Mercer, W. Washington, J. Renfrew (skip)—15.

P. Ford, Craven, Frame, J. Johnson (skip)—23.

H. Kidd, E. Warren, J. Watt, A. Stewart (skip)—23.

The Strawberry Vale Orchestra has offered its services. The fete will be patronized by the Bishop of Columbia, who will open the proceedings, and the vicar and committees of both churches look forward to a large gathering of the parishioners.

MRS. SCOTT SPEAKS TO VICTORIA WOMEN

Conservative Organizer, of Montreal, Entertained by Local Association

An interesting visitor has been in the city for the past few days in the person of Mrs. John Scott of Montreal, national organizer of Women's Conservative organizations in Canada. At a meeting of the Victoria Women's Conservative Association last evening, when Mrs. Scott was the guest of the local organization, the latter explained that the position of organizer that she held carried with it no remuneration. She had never taken anything in connection with the work, but was doing what she could to have the women of the Conservative Party take their fullest part in the work of the country.

In her address she said that it was the desire to have the women take their full part, side by side, with the men in the work in hand. She, however, pointed out that the women should not be dictated to by the men.

In this connection she referred to the disabilities under which the women of the Province of Quebec labored in many ways. The laws of the province precluded the women legally from many things that were allowed them in other provinces. While these were not put in effect in many cases, she said, it was a disgrace that they existed on the statute books.

WORK IN MONTREAL

Mrs. Scott told of the good work that was done by women in the elections in the City of Montreal. There were twenty-four branches in the city; and the surroundings of the city. These had been organized since 1917. The women in election times worked in the daylight, and there was no graft as far as they were concerned.

She paid a compliment to the Western men, who seemed to have more advanced ideas with respect to the rights of women in politics than had Eastern ones. In connection with the matter of the East and the West, she was of the opinion that there should be a greater exchange of ideas as between the two sections, so that the problems of this country might be solved. The coming national convention in Winnepeg, when a permanent leader will be selected, would be a splendid opportunity in her opinion for the formation of a National Women's Conservative Association.

A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mrs. Scott by the meeting last night in the Campbell Building, which was presided over by the president, Mrs. Fairweather. Miss Ruth Hayman delighted the audience with recitations during the evening.

PROTEST CHANGE

At the meeting the matter of the representation of women in the ward elections for the choice of delegates to attend the Winnipeg convention was discussed, and it was decided to protest against the change that had been made from two women and two men to one woman and three men. A protest will be sent to the B. C. association against the change.

A prize was presented to Mrs. H. Webster for punctuality in attending all the meetings of the association. The presentation was made by Mrs. Scott of Montreal, the national organizer. A tie had occurred for the prize, Mrs. F. Marshall being also in the same class. A drawing to decide was made, Mrs. S. F. Tolmie performing the drawing.

GRADUATE NURSES OF ST. JOSEPH'S MEET

Mrs. Harry Beach Re-elected President of Alumnae—Other Officers Named

At the annual meeting of St. Joseph's Hospital Alumnae Association held on Saturday afternoon in the nurses' study hall, Mrs. Harry Beach was re-elected president of the association. The members were welcomed by Sister Mary Henrietta, assistant superior and superintendent of nurses. A letter was read from Sister Superior, who, with Sister Mary Gregory, superintendent of nurses, is attending a medical convention in Milwaukee. The letter conveyed a hearty welcome for "home gathering of its graduates," and expressed good wishes for the success of the alumnae, also gratification for gifts received during the year. These were in the form of an anatomical figure for the teaching of anatomy, a chassis demonstration doll, an instrument for instruction in bacteriology, also a cheque to start a library fund for student nurses.

A business discussion followed, and letters and telegrams from absent members were read. The election of new officers, which are as follows, concluded the business portion of the gathering: President, Mrs. Harry Beach; first vice-president, Miss M. Craighead; second vice-president, Miss H. K. Knox; recording secretary, Miss D. M. Taylor; corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Wilson; secretary-treasurer, Miss E. Reid; councillors, Mrs. Maysmith, Miss E. McDonald, Miss B. A. Graham and Miss K. Fraser.

After adjournment a tour of hospital inspection was enjoyed by all, especially early graduates, who noted many great improvements and new equipment.

At 5 p. m. the nurses met in the dining hall, where a dainty tea was spread, amid decorations of the association's colors, red, white and gold. Pupil nurses very ably assisted during tea hour.

Among those present were Lister M. Henrietta, Mrs. Beach, Miss Middleton, Miss McDonald, Miss Craighead, Sister Mary Peter, Sister Mary Bridget, Miss Graham, Misses Adams, Reid, Knox, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Johnson (Port Orchard, Wash.), Misses Hogon, McBride, Roberts, Devereaux, Meagher, Taylor, Fraser and Patterson, Mrs. McFaddon, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Sinclair, Misses Ross, D. Sangster, A. Sangster Sr., Mr. Patrick, Sister Mary Ann, Sister Mary Margaret of the Sacred Heart (Douglas, Alaska), Sister Mary Noami, Sister Mary Dositie, Sister Mary Clair, Miss Rolands and others.

A very hearty vote of thanks was attended the sisters for a most enjoyable and happy home-coming by the nurses.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

PSYCHO-ANALYSIS IS NOT A CURE-ALL!

There are a thousand and one factors which are responsible for the development of disease in the human body. Those who read my column each day know the important part food has in producing disease. You know also, by this time, that I consider mental causes have a certain place in creating the various ailments.

I thoroughly believe in the science of psycho-analysis, which simply means the science of analyzing the mind. Many cures have been effected through the examination which is also a treatment in itself.

Those who become interested in psycho-analysis, however, often expect too much from it, and many who have only a slight knowledge of what may be called "mental cure" will refuse to study further when they read in the paper about some famous psychologist who has died from organic or functional disease.

Dr. Sigmund Freud, one of the leaders in the psycho-analytical movement, has just been operated upon for cancer of the tongue, and many will say, "I told you so! He could not even cure himself." Dr. Freud is now over seventy years of age, which is at least twelve years over the normal expectancy of life at the present time. Chances are he has lived and will live a great many years longer than the majority of his critics. His life has been intensely interesting and completely filled with long hours of work in teaching others to adjust their emotional disturbances and in helping them to help themselves mentally.

Any man who accomplishes much constructive work in one life must apply himself assiduously to such work during most of his waking hours. It is the rule that successful men always overwork and probably shorten their lives thereby. I am sure such over-work would not be so harmful if it were not for the fact that busy men are usually careless in their eating habits, giving little time to the selection of proper food and not spending enough time masticating their food properly.

Many of our leading mental scientists, who have helped thousands to happiness and health, have themselves died of some preventable disease which could have been avoided if they would have also studied and practiced the principles of food chemistry.

We are living in a body made of material substances, and we cannot expect to remain in perfect health unless we recognize the rules of physiology as well as psycho-therapy.

The food cure and the mind cure will both be used by the progressive physician of the future who is earnestly trying to help his patients in the prevention and cure of disease.

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

A pretty blue frock is becoming to almost everyone. Especially is this true of the compose models, which may be designed with the most flattering shade of lighter blue nearer the face, and the darker tones used in the lower part of the frock.

The effective French model shown above uses coarse fagotting in light blue to join its harmonizing sections. The skirt is finely pleated.

The little hat is lightweight blue straw faced with cream crepe. The massed cornflowers on the crown add a smart touch for the Summer season.

A Watched Pot Never Boils!

THIS homely old adage has a real foundation in the fact that every lift of the cover allows part of the heat to escape, and lengthens the time required for cooking.

The same principle applies to the frequent peeps in the oven that are necessary when there's no scientific regulation of heat.

It not only seems longer when you have to watch the pot; it actually is longer.

But thanks to modern science, the up-to-date gas range assumes this burden and controls the heat at exactly the right degree for whatever you are cooking. You need not even stay at home during a long, tedious baking. Nothing will overcook. Nothing will undercook.

The little heat regulator keeps a sharp watch, controlling the heat more accurately than you could do it.

Of course you'll have one of these ranges in your kitchen sooner or later. Why not get it now and enjoy its helpfulness through the Summer months?

PARISIENNE TO SING AT FROLIC

PRESS GANG'S PARTY TOMORROW AT CRYSTAL GARDEN WILL BE JOYOUS REVEL

"Miss Canada" Will Appear in "Stunning Poses"—"Human Comet" to Thrill Merrymakers

Mme Lamy, mezzo-soprano, has consented to appear at the Victoria Press Club's June Frolic tomorrow evening at the Crystal Garden, and will sing several of her favorite numbers. Mme. Lamy studied in Paris and other French music centres, and is a most gifted vocalist. Victorians will not miss the rare treat of hearing this talented artist at the Press Cluo fete here.

The energetic committee arranging tomorrow night's Press Gang dance and water frolic has lined up a host of attractions that will make the party a snappy one. While the dancers will be active on the floors at both ends of the Garden to the strains of music supplied by the Crystal Garden and Ozard's orchestras, a continuous programme of aquatic events will be run off in the mammoth Crystal pool. There will be action, zip and pep all the way through.

MISS CANADA IN POSES

Miss Madeline Woodman, acclaimed as the fifth most beautiful girl in the world at the International Beauty Show at Galveston, Texas, will be greeted in her first pjublic appearance since she brought honor to her home town. Miss Canada will be seen in a new and stunning bathing suit, and will appear in a number of poses.

Speaking of steps, the latest, that's what six charming girlies are going to demonstrate tomorrow night, and they don't mean maybe, either. The Black Bottom, Charleston, shimmy and kindred dances are not in it with the Lindbergh Leap, the Soviet Sidestep, the Galveston Glide and other novel and original terpsichorean creations.

Among many spectacular novelties to be performed in the Crystal Pool tomorrow night will be that of a daring diver in a thrilling leap from the high diving platform. Covered from toes to crown in a highly inflammable solution, he will take his stand on the highest diving point over the pool. The spotlight will play upon him for a few seconds while he makes his bow.

A PILLAR OF FLAME

Then the great building will be thrown into total darkness and suddenly the diver will appear as a pillar of flame. He will pose for three thrilling seconds and will then plunge from the platform to the water, which will be transformed by lighting effects to resemble a bed of fire. This is but one of many exciting events on a crowded water programme. There will be water rugby, a human fish will fight with expert anglers, tournaments and tugs-of-war and other exercises to entertain the patrons of the Press Club's gay festival.

Remember—Tomorrow night's the night.

The fun start at 9 o'clock, and the place is the Crystal Garden.

Revel with the merrymakers at the Press Gang's June Frolic—the time of a lifetime.

Attractive Programme For Club Garden Party

The Women's Canadian Club has arranged a most attractive programme for its annual garden party to be held at "Benvenuto," Tod Inlet, on Wednesday, by kind permission of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart. This will include dancing on the lawn by the tiny pupils of Miss Lillian Michaelis, and an orchestra will dispense a musical programme from 3 till 5 o'clock. Afternoon tea will be served in the Italian garden, and ice cream will be available. The gardens are looking unusually beautiful in their Summer glory, and visitors, as well as residents, will find the setting idyllic in which to while away a pleasant afternoon. Tallyhos will leave Cameron & Calwell's taxi stand on Government Street at 2 o'clock for the gardens.

Pupils' Recital to Be At Crystal Garden

Miss Kate McGregor's pupils will appear in recital on Friday evening at the Crystal Garden. The programme, which will be given entirely by students, will begin at 8:30.

Skinny, "Lifeless" Women Gain Weight

Gain Pounds of Weight with New YEAST and IRON —or Pay Nothing

If we could only show you the wonders that Ironized Yeast has done for thousands of men and women. The bony hollows that have been filled up with firm flesh, stringy necks and bony limbs given rounded beauty! Pimples, boils and blotches have disappeared for good.

How Yeast and Iron Builds Quick Weight

Ironized Yeast is two tonics in one — weight-building Yeast and strength-giving Iron. The yeast is the same used in making malt, and which makes malt so beneficial. It is specially cultured yeast, concentrated, to give the utmost in flesh-producing value.

This Yeast is treated with pure, vegetable iron, the same as in spinach, lettuce and celery. In this form Iron is easily assimilated by the body, making rich, red blood and toning up nerves and muscles.

Only when Yeast is Ironized in this way is it more effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening values of Yeast. By this special formula Ironized Yeast gives you results in half the time required by yeast or iron taken separately.

PREMIER OLIVER'S DAUGHTER MARRIES

Hon. John Oliver Gives His Daughter in Marriage at Quiet Wedding in Eastern Canada

HAMILTON, Ont., June 20.—A wedding of more than usual interest was solemnized in St. Giles Church this evening when Mildred Emma, youngest daughter of Hon. John Oliver, Premier of British Columbia, and Mrs. Oliver, became the wife of Mr. Albert Ward Savage of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Savage of Victoria, B. C. The ceremony, which was witnessed by immediate relatives and a few intimate friends, was conducted by Rev. F. T. Martin. A reception at the home of the bride's brother, Mr. Robert Oliver, and Mrs. Oliver, followed the ceremony.

Hon. John Oliver gave his daughter away. Mrs. Robert Oliver of Hamilton, sister-in-law of the bride, attended her as matron of honor. Mr. Arthur Jeff, Montreal, was best man. Mrs. John Oliver, mother of the bride, was present. Among the guests was the bride's brother, Mr. Charles Oliver, from Penticton, B. C.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Savage left for Toronto, from where they will take a trip to the Thousand Islands. They will make their home in Montreal.

NURSERY WELCOMES IMMIGRANT BABIES

Quebec Station Receives Newcomers With Kindness—Over 4,200 People in May

Reports just in from Miss Tremaine, the nurse-in-charge at the Quebec seaport nursery, where women and children from immigrant ships are welcomed and cared for by the Red Cross, show that during the month of May 4,292 people passed through the nursery and were given the usual care and kindness. Of these, 1,646 were mothers, and 2,646 were children and infants.

A party of fifty boys traveling together to their destination, where they will be trained for agriculture, were also welcomed and given refreshment and advice.

Five families from Britain, who had no idea of the distances in Canada or of the needs for the long journey to the West, were given packed boxes of food, and another family of ten was given food enough for four days.

Miss Tremaine reports that large numbers of the newcomers are British people arriving in Canada under the Land Settlement Scheme and are "healthy, sensible folk, who are most grateful for any information given them about health and child welfare." A total of 884 follow-up health cards was issued to as many mothers of families at the nursery in order to keep them in touch with the Red Cross or other public health machinery at their points of destination.

Very few cases of illness among incoming families were made evident at the nursery, but among those demanding immediate attention were those of a small baby with bronchial pneumonia, to whom the doctor was called and who has been seriously ill in hospital, but is now recovering, and of a man who was found by Miss Tremaine very ill on a train just pulling out for the interior. The doctor found him suffering from typhus fever. He was sent to Gross Isle where he has recovered.

In all, twenty-six immigrant ships docked during the month past at Quebec.

Weddings

HARRIS—ROSS

On Friday afternoon a quiet wedding took place at Breadalbane, corner of St. Patrick Street and Windsor Road, the minister's residence, when Rev. Dr. Campbell celebrated the marriage of Miss Dorothy Madeline Ross and Mr. Harland G. Harris, both of Minneapolis. The bride was unaccompanied, while the bridegroom was accompanied by Mr. Thomas de Macedo, also of Minneapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Harris are spending a honeymoon in this city.

We predict that this little fellow will get on in the world; he has the gift of resourcefulness.

"Well, really, dear," said his mother, as reported in Punch, "the fog is so thick I'm afraid we must give up our idea of going to the zoo."

Michael (aged six): "But, mother, we simply must go. I've put it down in my diary that we went."

FRANK Dolp, of Portland, holder of the Western amateur championship, won the medal honors in the qualifying rounds of the Pacific Northwest amateur championship played at the Colwood Golf and Country Club, when he negotiated the thirty-six holes for a total of 149. Donald Moe and Ronald Moe, brothers, from the same city, were second and third, with scores of 150 and 151, respectively.

Consistency brought Dolp home in front of the field. In the morning his card of 75 was two strokes behind that of the leader, Bon Stein, of Seattle, but the latter failed to maintain his early pace in the afternoon and finished with cards of 73 and 79 for a total of 152. Dolp added a 74 to his earlier 75 to top Stein by three strokes.

Meanwhile Don Moe, the seventeen-year-old runner for the Oregon State title, who had taken a 78 in the morning, flashed around in 72 for a total of 150, just one stroke behind Dolp.

Roy Moe, who was lying second at noon with a 74 for the first eighteen, shot a 77 in the afternoon and finished third with 151.

WILLING FINISHES STRONG

Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, winner of the championship in 1924, made a strong finish for a 73 in the afternoon after taking an 80 in the morning, and was in fifth place when the final results were summed up, one stroke ahead of Russel Smith, from the same city, who had two rounds of 78 and 76.

Portland turned out another leader when Rudie Wilhelm, Oregon State champion, finished with 77 and 78 for a total of 155, which tied Dick Moore, the local hope, who holds the British Columbia championship. Moore shot a 77 in the first eighteen and looked like he was due for a heavy fall going out in the afternoon when he went the nine holes in 44, but from there on he played brilliant golf to come home in 34 for a total of 78.

Dick's carrd for the last nine was the best that was turned in, either in the open or amateur championship rounds, and sets a new record in the last nine for amateurs or professionals from the back tees.

G. Standifer, of Seattle, was tied for ninth place with B. Winter, each having totals of 157. Forest Watson, the defending champion, was next with 161. Watson was penalized two strokes for grounding his club in the hazard at the fourth hole.

LINEHAM SLIPS IN AFTERNOON

Harold Lineham, runner-up for the past two years, at the Colwood Club, was in strong contention at the end of the first round, finishing with a 75 to tie for second place, but he slipped in the afternoon and required an 86 to finish next to Forest Watson, with a total of 161.

G. M. Terry, 164; J. Matson, 165; F. Thomas, 168, and N. T. Fell, 170, were among the other Victorians to make the select group. The latter was tied with four others for the last place and won in the play-off. Jack Matson, like Watson, grounded his club on the fourth, which cost him two strokes.

A. V. Price, Uplands champion, failed to get going and turned in an 87 and a 90. Percy Edmonds, Jack Savident, R. Morrison, of Uplands, also failed to get into the championship flight.

One of the high lights of the day's play was the two at the thirteenth hole by Donald Moe. The seventeen-year-old High School student drove out a beauty and hit a perfect mashie shot for his second to find the cup. The hole is 387 yards long.

Alderwood Club, of Portland, won the Davis Cup for the best four-man team over the 36 holes of medal play with the following players and scores:

F. Dolp	75	74	149
R. Moe	74	77	151
V. Dolp	82	85	167
D. Moe	78	72	150—617

Cecil Leitch Suggests Match to George S. Lyon, Captain of Touring Dominion Golfers

TORONTO, June 20.—A team match between women of Great Britain, and senior golfers of Canada, has been arranged. Miss Cecil Leitch, former British champion, suggested the match in a cable to C. A. Bogert, of the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association, who accepted the suggestion. Miss Leitch will choose the British team and will make further arrangements when the Canadian team arrives in Britain.

Captained by George S. Lyon, of Toronto, the Canadian seniors are now on their way to Great Britain for the triangular contest with teams from the United States Senior Association and the British Senior Golfing Association. The Canadian team will give strokes to the players chosen by Miss Leitch. The course for the match has not been named.

Class "B" Golfers Show Form at Oak Bay Links

Scores of Under Ninety Fail to Make Select Group—Harry Duker Is Medalist With Total of 76 for Round

Harry Duker, of Vancouver, showed the way to a heavy field in the P.N.G.A. Class "B" championship event, played over eighteen holes at the Victoria Golf Club yesterday, by turning in the splendid score of 76 for the round. Duker carried off the medal by two strokes, his next rival being C. D. Christensen, who had a 78. Scores generally were good among the large handicappers and those outside of 89 were not good enough to make the championship ripple.

Victorians make up the majority of the flight and constitute the biggest threat for the crown, although the outsiders look like offering plenty of competition.

J. E. Wilson, star senior golfer, was well up in the running in the same berth as Scot Whiting, one of Colwood's first stringers. A. C. Falk, of Uplands, and "Mickey" Richardson, of Colwood, were in close proximity.

Play today will continue over eighteen holes.

NEW GOLF CLUB HOLDS MEETING

GORGE VALE ORGANIZATION HAS NOW ASSURED MEMBERSHIP OF 450

Will Decide on Plans for Financing Construction of 18-Hole Course

Plans for financing the new Gorge Vale Golf Club, which is to be constructed in Esquimalt Municipality, will be discussed at a general meeting of the members to be held in the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium on Friday at 8 p.m. The full membership of 450 for the club is now assured and the next step will be the authorization of the formation and registration of the company.

The forthcoming meeting will be asked to confirm the agreement which has been entered into with the Hudson's Bay Company for the purchase of the land. In regard to the money required for construction the intention is to put a plan before the membership whereby it could be secured from among the members themselves. Three different plans will be submitted for consideration and the attitude of the meeting will decide what steps will be taken in the future financing of the club.

The Gorge Vale Club, with an assured membership of 450, has been organized in the space of a few months, which affords an illustration of the popularity of golf in Victoria. The success achieved in the new venture up to the present also affords an indication of the general realization there is of the need of a new eighteen-hole golf course of easy accessibility. The land chosen is ideal for the purpose and the enthusiasm of those who have signed applications for membership is a warrant that Friday's meeting will be well attended and that a decision will be reached regarding definite plans for the actual commencement of the construction of the course which it is hoped to have in operation by June, 1929.

SWIMMING TWINS GAIN ON SCHEDULE

Thirteen-Year-Old Zitenfield Girls Have Made Good Progress on 162-Mile Trip

ATHENS, N.Y., June 20.—Bernice and Phyllis Zitenfield, thirteen-year-old twins, were ahead of schedule today in their 162-mile swim from Albany to New York, when they arrived off the Athens Flat Light, twenty-seven and a half miles below Albany, at 3:05 p.m. today.

The twins took off from Albany yesterday morning in their attempt to break the record held by Mrs. Lottie Moore Schoemmel in the Hudson swim. When they were taken out of the water they were more than an hour ahead of Mrs. Schoemmel's record.

Georges Michel Fails To Swim Lake Leman

GENEVA, June 20.—Georges Michel, who swam the English Channel in record time last September and who has announced his intention of going to Canada and the United States, failed yesterday in an attempt to swim Lake Leman from Lausanne to Geneva, a distance of about thirty-two miles. He abandoned the attempt after twelve hours, when he had gone about half way.

JOHNNY FARRELL LEADS THE FIELD

DEFENDING CHAMPION SCORES BRILLIANT 138 IN SHAWNEE OPEN TOURNAMENT

Is Thirteen Strokes Better Than Card Turned in by Present National U.S. Titleholder

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Penn., June 20.—With a brilliant 138 for the 136 holes, Johnny Farrell, of the Quaker Ridge Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N.Y., today led one of the strongest fields that ever contested the Shawnee open golf tournament. At half-way Farrell held an advantage of three strokes over Willie MacFarlane, former open champion, who finished the first day's play in second place with 141. William Mehlhorn, New York, was third with 143.

The best Tommy Armour, newly crowned National open champion, could do, was 151. Armour ran into difficulties in the morning round, finishing with 90. In the afternoon he found the course more to his liking and achieved 71. Farrell won the tournament in 1922 and again last year. In his morning round today he came within one stroke of equaling the record for the course of 67, which he established in winning the event in 1922. He turned in a card of 70 for the afternoon, two strokes under par and had a total of nine birdies, six in the morning and three in the afternoon.

MacFarlane, with cards of 71 and 70, was the only other player to break par on both rounds. Mehlhorn was one stroke under par in the morning, but took a par of 72 in the afternoon for a total of 142.

Nine strokes behind the leader came Joe Turnesa, White Plains, to finish in fourth place with 147, while Leo Diegel, also of White Plains, turned in a card of 148 for fifth place.

Turnesa shot a par 72 in his morning round, but took 75 in the afternoon. Bobby Cruickshank, White Plains; Billy Burke, Greenwich, Con., and Jim Dante, West Newton, Mass., had 149.

DATE ANNOUNCED FOR TITLE FIGHT

Tunney to Meet Winner of Sharkey-Dempsey Bout in First Week of September

NEW YORK, June 20.—The world's heavyweight championship fight between Gene Tunney and the winner of the Sharkey-Dempsey fray here on July 21 has been set for the week of September 5 to 10, and will not take place in this city, The New York Times says.

Promoter Tex Rickard is inclined to favor Chicago as a site, although still considering offers from Baltimore and Philadelphia, the story says.

Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, announced after a conference with Rickard, that he accepted terms for the Dempsey bout, and would sign probably today. Dempsey is expected from the West this week and Rickard is confident of obtaining his signature at once for the July 21 battle.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULT

Eagles 2, Sons of Canada 0. Next game, Thursday, Eagles vs. U.C.T.

The Eagles stuck their talons into the Sons of Canada senior amateur baseballers last night at the Royal Athletic Park and flew to a 2-0 victory over the Natives, in one of the fastest games of the season. Apart from the speed that was shown throughout, the game was not productive of a thousand thrills.

BIG NOISE

Givens, right fielder for the Birdmen, was the big noise last night, when he counted in the scoring of the two runs. His timely single in the sixth, at a time when his teammates began to bunch their hits, which were very few, was responsible for sending "Hap" Gandy over the rubber for the first counter. In the eighth, his hot drive to right field allowed him to circle the bases, and the official score sheet credited him with a homer.

BREEZED SIX

Jack Curtis, who did the heavy work for the Sons, breezed six batters, while Kerr fanned one man. Both pitchers issued a pair of free trips to the first sack.

During the nine innings of fast ball twelve hits were gathered off the two chuckers, seven of which were credited to the winners. One place, however, on the official score sheet the winners outnumbered their opponents, and that was in the error column. No less than five bobbies were chalked up to the Birdmen, with "Hap" Gandy, who covers the third sack, taking first place with two boners.

The Sons made two errors. Murty Dunn, who plays short, pulled his usual boner, while Ed Newman, who made his return to the game last night after a number of years' absence, was chalked up with one error. With the exception of this boner, Newman played a good game. He led the Sons' willow smashers with two hits out of three trips to the bat. Bob Milne, another old-timer, made his return to the game last night and played right field for the losers.

George Gandy, left fielder for the winners, turned in a good game last night, and he accepted five chances in the field, which he handled nicely. His running catch of Bacon's Texas leaguer in the first stanza, was heavily applauded by the fans.

JASPER PARK GOLF PROFESSIONAL SHOOTS 69 IN PRACTICE ROUND AT MONTREAL

Goes Into Final Day's Play With British Team With Two-Stroke Lead Today

MONTREAL, June 20.—Jimmy Rimmer, professional from Jasper Park, Alberta, turned in a 69 for his practice round over the Royal Montreal Golf Club course today, the westerner indicating that he is prepared to make a bold bid tomorrow to retain the lead he established in the first 36 holes of the 72-hole competition between British Ryder Cup golfers and the team of Canadian professionals.

Members of both the British and Canadian teams went over the course today as a final preparation for the 36-hole contest there tomorrow. Generally excellent rounds were the order. Arthur Havers, former British open champion, and Aubrey Boomer, the brilliant professional from the St. Cloud Club, near Paris, went around in par figures, while others of both teams were well under 80.

Rimmer will take a two-stroke advantage in the final 36 holes, leading Dave Black, of Shaughnessy Heights, by that margin.

Sixteen hundred dollars is at stake in prize money tomorrow. The pairings:

Ted Ray, Great Britain, and Charlie Murray, Royal Montreal.

A. Boomer, Great Britain, and Nichol Thompson, Hamilton.

G. A. Philpot, Great Britain, and A. H. Murrat, Beaconsfield, Montreal.

H. C. Jolly, Great Britain, and Andrew Kay, Lambton, Toronto.

George Gadd, Great Britain, and Phil Taylor, Victoria.

Arthur Havers, Great Britain, and Jimmy Rimmer, Jasper Park.

George Duncan, Great Britain, and Dave Spittal, Timberdale, Montreal.

A. C. Whitcombe, Great Britain, and Jimmy Johnston, Rosedale, Toronto.

Fred Robson, Great Britain, and Eric Bannister, St. Charles, Winnipeg.

He took nine wickets for 46 runs. Thomas of Northants had a good day with the ball, six Gloucester wickets falling to his credit for 68 runs.

Scores in other matches at the close of play today were:

Yorkshire, 81; Middlesex, 178; Yorkshire, 262.

Exhibition Baseball Won by Duncan, 5-3

DUNCAN, June 20.—Duncan defeated Spencers of Victoria here yesterday afternoon at baseball by a score of 5 to 3. The fine pitching in the pinches of Robinson for the locals featured the game.

VICTORIA DEFEATS SHAWNIGAN EASILY

A team of eight players from the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club played a match with the Strathcona Tennis Club at Shawnigan on Sunday, and although Victoria won all the matches, some of them were very closely contested.

The match between Miss Neame and Knight and Miss Lawson and Leech produced some excellent tennis, Miss Neame playing a brilliant game, her backhand strokes being especially effective, and backed by the steady play of Knight, enabled the Strathcona couple to win the first set, Miss Lawson and Leech taking the two remaining sets at 6-2.

The teams, with the Victoria players first named, were as follows:

Men's doubles—H. R. Leech and Flett defeated Knight and White, 6-2, 6-1; H. G. Dalby and Jackson defeated Langton and Davies, 6-2, 6-2.

Ladies' doubles—Miss Lawson and Miss Jackson defeated Miss Neame and Mrs. Davies, 3-6, 6-2, 6-2; Mrs. Price and Miss D. Cass defeated Miss Clark and Miss Christison, 6-3, 6-5.

Mixed doubles—Miss Lawson and Leech defeated Miss Neame and Knight, 5-6, 6-2, 6-2; Miss Jackson and Flett defeated Mrs. Davies and White, 6-1, 6-3; Miss D. Cass and Jackson defeated Miss Clark and Langton, 6-5, 6-5; Mrs. Price and Dalby defeated Miss Christison and Davies, 5-6, 6-2, 6-2.

Lawn Bowling

The standing in the Burnside Wednesday League, after three closely contested games, is Byng and Tupman leading with a score of 63, followed by Goodwin and Halladay with 61 each. The remaining ten players are close up with scores from 55 to 59.

Burnside selection to play the third game in the Greater Victoria League next Saturday is: No. 1 Rink, Moules, Finlay, Renfrew and S. Johnstone, with A. Stewart reserve; No. 2 Rink, Edwards, P. Johnston, Byng and Boyd, with G. Vallance and P. Handley reserves.

In the first round of the Dominion doubles, Vallance and Boyd beat Edwards and Handley, 19 to 13.

The visit of the British bowlers to Victoria in August is proving a great incentive to local bowlers to get fit in good time for the event. Both at Beacon Hill and Burnside new members are being enrolled weekly.

ONWEGOS SCORE 16-10 VICTORY

Defeat Andreans' Softball Team in First Game of Poodle Dog Cafe Knockout Trophy

SERIES FEATURED BY CLOSE GAMES

Last night's softball results in the first games of the knockout series follow:

Poodle Dog Cafe Cup for "A" and "B" Sections—Onwegos, 16; Andreans, 10.

Peden Bros. Cup, "C" and "D" Sections—Five C's, 9; Albion Stove Works, 8. Cameron Woodmen, 11; Colonist, 9.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

Driving over six runs in the third inning, the Onwegos softball team took an early lead in their game with the Andreans at Work Point Barracks last night and paved the way for a 16-10 victory. The Onwegos, who in the first half of the schedule copped the "B" Section title, are playing good ball, and their victory last night rates them as dangerous contenders for the knockout series championship. The Andreans made a determined effort in their half of the ninth and sent six runners across the home plate, but the previous advantage of the winners was too much for the Andreans to overcome. J. D. Wallace and C. E. Roberts umpired the game.

The score by innings follows: R.
Onwegos ..... 0 0 6 1 3 1 3 0 2—16
Andreans ..... 1 2 0 0 0 0 1 0 6—10

CAMERON WOODMEN WIN

The Colonist softball nine passed out of the running for the Peden Bros. trophy last night at Central Park when they were defeated 11-9 by the Cameron Woodmen. The winners piled up nine runs in the first four innings, to give them a substantial lead, and the fighting efforts of the newsies left them them two runs short of their opponents' total.

The score by innings follows: R.
Woodmen ..... 0 2 3 4 0 0 0 2 x—11
Colonist ..... 1 0 0 1 0 1 2 1 3— 9

CLOSELY CONTESTED GAME

In one of the most keenly contested softball games of the knockout series the Five C's disposed of the Albion Stove Works by a 9-8 score at Central Park last night. One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the contest, which was fast and snappy throughout.

The winners staged a batting rally in the ninth and sent four runners over the rubber to bring their total to nine runs. The Stovemen scored their runs in the fourth, sixth, seventh and ninth cantos.

The score by innings follows: R.
Five C's ..... 0 1 1 0 1 0 1 1 4—9
Albions ..... 0 0 0 2 0 2 2 0 2—8

DOUBLE THE SCORE

At Central Park the 16th Canadian Scottish doubled the score on the U.C.T. softball aggregation to create a triple tie for first berth in the "D" Section. The winners took an early lead and were never overtaken.

The score by innings follows: R.
16th Can. Scot. .. 3 2 2 1 2 0 2 1 0—12
U.C.T. ..... 0 1 0 0 0 0 2 0 3— 6

TONIGHT'S GAMES

Tonight six teams in the Poodle Dog Cafe Cup knockout series will be in action as follows:

Hillcrest vs. Bryant Bluebirds, at Work Point Barracks; umpire, Wallace.

Tillicums vs. Cameron Lumber Company, at Central Park, upper diamond.

Lemon, Gonnason vs. Y.M.C.A., at Central Park, lower diamond.

The game at Work Point between the Hillcrests, champions of the "A" Section of the league, and Bryant Bluebirds, another "A" Section team, is expected to be a keenly fought affair. The hillmen are hitting on all nine at present and the birdmen will have their hands full.

At Central Park, lower diamond, the Y.M.C.A. should give the Lemon, Gonnason representatives a merry battle. The "Y" went along nicely in the "A" Section until their sudden downfall at the hands of the Hillcrests. Tonight they will be out to down the lumbermen and enter the second round of the knockout series.

The Tillicums and the Cameron Lumber nine will try conclusions at Central Park, upper diamond. The clubmen have been playing good ball recently and are slight favorites to defeat the lumbermen. All games will commence at 6:30 o'clock.

COWICHAN BAY REGATTA HELD

Many Water Amusements and Races Provide Entertainment for Crowd of Considerable Proportions

SPEEDBOAT CUTS CAPERS IN BAY

The Cowichan Bay Club regatta, held at the Bay June 18 and 19, proved a drawing card of no mean proportions. The weather was ideal for water sports, a light breeze changing to a real sailing breeze on June 19. Many of the boys from Brentwood College took part in the events.

Sydney Pickles, Australian airman, provided one of the features of the regatta, with his diminutive speedboat "Mustard." The small craft provided thrills for all with its capers and clouds of spray as it fairly flew over the waves. Mr. Pickles is at present working on another fast boat, which will be named "Cayenne."

Result of the race for the Lane Challenge Cup and the Irvine Challenge Cup, for motor yachts from Cadboro Bay to Cowichan Bay were as follows:

Owing to a sudden drop in the wind, several of the sailing boats taking part in the races over the triangular course arrived too late for their crews to take part in some of the races, which consequently had to be cancelled.

The race for the Cowichan Cup was won by Asthore, J. Dick. Mr. Blandy won the starboat race with Walk Over.

All-Star Lacrosse Aggregation Will Oppose "The Rest"

An all-star lacrosse team will oppose "The Rest" at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday at 6:30 o'clock. This necessitates the cancellation of the regular scheduled game between Victoria Capitols and Sidney, which was previously set for this date.

PACIFIC RELATIONS INSTITUTE MEETING

NEW YORK, June 20.—Great Britain is sending some of her ablest men in international affairs to attend the meeting of the Institute of Pacific Relations, in Honolulu, from July 15 to 29.

Most of the English delegates will arrive in Montreal on June 23.

Sir Ernest Wilton, for twenty years in the British diplomatic service in China, will be one of the delegates, as will Sir Frederick White, the first president of the Indian Legislative Assembly. Other members are Charles K. Webster, professor of international politics in the University of Wales; Lionel Curtis, honorary secretary of the Royal Institute of International Affairs; Sir Hugh Wynham and Malcolm MacDonald, Ramsay MacDonald's son; Philip Kerr, president of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust, is also expected to attend.

This midpacific meeting is unofficial. It is a neighbors' and citizens' attempt to get at the sources of friction in the Pacific.

Australia, like the United States and China, will send women for these discussions.

HERBERT BRENON TURNS TO DRAMA

MAN WHO MADE "BEAU GESTE" AND "PETER PAN" CREATED "THE TELEPHONE GIRL"

Fine Vaudeville Feature Supplements Picture Attraction at Capitol Theatre

Herbert Brenon, the man who made "Beau Geste" and "Peter Pan," now turns his versatile hand to political melodrama and "The Telephone Girl," which arrived at the Capitol Theatre last night, is the result. Paramount's new picture emerges as an interesting treatment of the William C. DeMille play, "The Woman."

As Matthew Standish, candidate for Governor and party to an indiscreet vacation some years before, Warner Baxter makes good all the promises his "Great Gatsby" work held forth.

Holbrook Blinn, Madge Bellamy, May Allison and Lawrence Gray are others who can't be overlookekd when distributing praise.

To sum up, "The Telephone Girl" can easily be classed with the best dramas Mr. Brenon has directed. Some credit for its success should be handed to Elizabeth Meehan, the scenarist, and Cameraman Leo Tover.

ON THE STAGE

At the Capitol Theatre this week the management are offering three decidedly novel vaudeville attractions in addition to the picture attractions. They include The Dancing Brownie, hailed as a kid full of personality, in a novelty presentation; Ethyle Baley, Australian prima donna, and The Harrison Twins, in a harmony singing, dancing and instrumental specialty.

COLISEUM THEATRE "Fun on the Briny" will be the vehicle that Nixon and his Black Bottom Girls will appear in this week at the Coliseum. It is a fast travelling musical comedy which takes place aboard the good ship Jeannette. There is plenty of action during the comedy, with some very beautiful nautical numbers, hornpipe dancing and special scenic effects. Nixon will be seen in the role of Louie Smetlz, the Dutch sailor, and the rest of the company cast to advantage. "Senorita," the screen attraction, starring Bebe Daniels, was written by John McDermott who, after three years as an actor and ten years as a director, has turned scenarist, and in his little retreat in the Hollywood Hills writes original stories and scenarios for Paramount.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE Which do you think is the best way to fall in love? Gradually and carefully—or suddenly, as though you have been gnocked overboard? Such is a question that has been debated in the minds of almost everyone at some time or other. No set rule has as yet been discovered—and it is doubtful if the question ever will be settled unequivocally. Both sides have exceptions that prove the rule. However, the "Lone Wolf" got his with a terrific wallop. One minute he was the boldest of bold adventurers, and the next minute—after he had looked into her eyes—he was meek as a lamb. And who is the "Lone Wolf?" None other than the most romantic figure in modern fiction, and the leading spirit of Louis Joseph Vance's exciting novel, "The Lone Wolf Returns," which will be the feature attraction at the Playhouse Theatre this week.

COLUMBIA THEATRE That melodrama as a play form has not lost its hold on public favor was evidenced last night at the Columbia Theatre, when a large and enthusiastic audience expressed its unanimous approval of the Universal-Film de France production presented by Carl Laemmle, the first picturization of Jules Verne's famous book and play, "Michael Strogoff." From the opening scenes when the "Czar of All Russia" entrusts to the hero, his "secret courier," a message to the Czar's brother, the Grand Duke, beleagured at the head of the army in Siberia, 5,000 miles away, to the very end of that perilous journey in a rousing climax, the audience were deeply engrossed in the mishaps and triumphs, the perils and the daring of the intrepid hero, ably enacted by Ivan Moskine, referred to in the programme as "Europe's Screen Idol." There are battle scenes in which it is said that some 6,000 people appeared, and there were thrills and to spare as the wild-riding Tartar barbarians clashed with the Russian cavalry.

VILMA BANKY SEEN IN BARBARA WORTH

Beautiful Blonde From Europe Takes Lead in Super-Attraction at Dominion This Week

Vilma Banky, one of Europe's recent and beautiful contributions to America's cinematic world, appears to have become thoroughly Americanized, for she appears as Barbara Worth, an American girl, in "The Winning of Barbara Worth," which is now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

Miss Banky has been an English girl, a Russian beauty, and a French dancing girl in Arabia, in her three previous screen appearances in America, with Ronald Colman and Rudolph Valentino.

Prior to her American film debut, Miss Banky was known as "the most beautiful blonde on the European screen," appearing in pictures for U. F. A., famous Continental production company. She was working in "Should I Marry" during the European tour of Mr. Goldwyn, which resulted in her contract for her American work.

Goldwyn was enthusiastic over Miss Banky's possibilities and persuaded her to forsake her Continental laurels for a new start before the cameras of Hollywood. She left her native Hungary and arrived in this country a little over a year ago.

PRAISE ACCORDED 'END OF ROAD' FILM

Toronto Globe Reviews With Approval Hygiene Picture Showing at Variety This Week

It is very unusual for a moving picture offered in a theatre in the ordinary way to the general public to inspire editorial comment in the newspapers outside of the news or theatrical columns. The following is a reprint of an editorial in The Toronto Globe after a viewing of the feature film, "The End of the Road," which will be shown at the Variety Theatre today. Not only is this a remarkable piece of work as regards style, but it is a straight from the shoulder attack upon the evils with which the picture deals:

"She married in her early twenty. In her heart the love throbbed big and glad that makes for all the world the Eden of innocence and beauty and truth. And she walked down the aisle of the church, going out on that strange new journey of life, so queenly was she, so winsome. Had she been your daughter your heart would have swelled with holy pride, and hope for her in her new home would have been high and confident and strong.

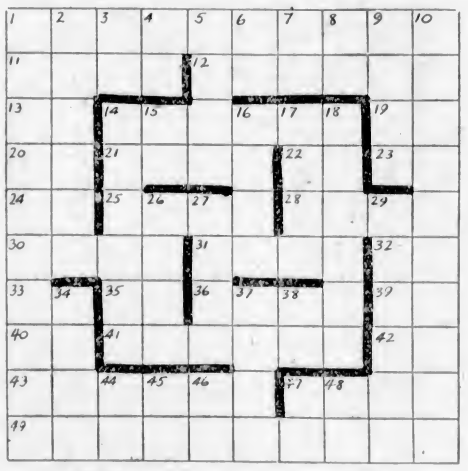

"But when the home door closed her good angels must have wept, for in the darkness an enshrouded pestilence walked, whose coming cast no shadow and whose footsteps made no sound upon the stairs."

"Darling," she said, breathlessly, "one feels as we speed along that life is really and truly worth living."

"Yes," he replied. "And judging from the way the pedestrians dodge us, they feel that way too."

In this puzzle black bars have replaced black squares as the dividing marks between words. The puzzle is solved in exactly the same manner as the old-style puzzle.

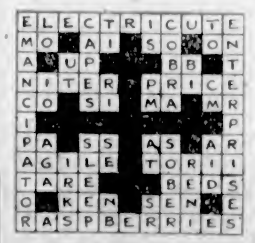

The numbered definitions are of words which when correctly thought out fill the white spaces in the diagram. Each number represents the beginning of a word, reading either across or down to a black bar. A black bar to the left of the number indicates a horizontal word; above a number, a vertical word.

Both vertical or horizontal numbers may begin a word, though inspection of the puzzle will show that this is not always the case. The correct words will have one white space for each letter and will interlock accurately and signify the definitions.

The horizontal and vertical words are different and through the definitions serve to check each other off with cross-clues from which you can recognize other words.

The improved style of diagram used in this puzzle fulfills all the recognized conditions and at the same time eliminates black squares. The diagram is 100 per cent efficient, as each square receives a letter and there is no wasted space. Through the elimination of unnecessary squares, larger squares have been made possible. Every cross-word solver will recognize the convenience and advantage of the perfected diagram.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

CRITICIZES GAME ADMINISTRATION

KELOWNA FISH AND GAME ASSOCIATION MAKES SEVERE ATTACKS ON SYSTEM

Demand Made for Immediate Return to Former Method of Having Separate Service

"Resolved, that in the opinion of this association the time has come for the officers of the British Columbia Fish and Game Protective Association to take a definite stand in the matter of securing a Provincial Game Department entirely dissociated from the Provincial police and politics; also that we are further of the opinion that there should be no hedging about that matter, the consensus of opinion of all those who know the game situation in B.C. being that nothing can be gained by a policy which is equivalent to a retreat from that strong position the protective organizations occupied two years ago. We are still further of the opinion that, if the officers of the Provincial organization cannot be depended upon to adhere to the original objective of all the game associations, it would be advisable to form an Interior organization whose officials would keep that objective in view at all times."

This resolution was carried at a special meeting of the Kelowna Fish and Game Protective Association, held last Friday. The Kelowna Courier, in reporting the meeting, says:

"Mr. J. N. Cushing also reminded the meeting that the sportsmen had been often given to understand that, 'if they waited' a proper game administration would be established. They had waited two years since the last promise of a real change, and no change has been made. Game affairs were still police affairs and the Game Board laid the blame of all stupid things on the police, while the police laid the blame on the board."

ATTACKS INSPECTOR

Mr. J. C. Clarance, in moving the resolution, is reported to have criticized the chief inspector. He said the members never had any other objective than securing once more a proper game department, such as had existed when Mr. Bryan Williams was chief game warden, but he was sorry to observe that those representing the organized game protective associations did not appear to be making a real effort to secure that objective. While the allied organization existed its officials had always done their best to keep the objective to the front, but since the allied association had been done away with in order to help out the formation of the Provincial organization, the objective had been continuously laid aside and merely minor issues handled, some of them of little practical importance.

It had been a very serious mistake to have wound up the allied association, which had done good work and which had bound the Interior sportsmen together. Though the Provincial organization had kept increasing in numbers, many new clubs having joined it, it appeared to him to have gained nothing whatever in the way of sane game administration. The whole of the efforts of past years towards getting game affairs handled by game men seemed to have culminated in nothing whatever and recently, instead of advancing, matters had become worse.

The attitude of those who had the handling of the Provincial organization seemed to be "we are up against a stone wall and therefore can do nothing," whereas, the attitude of the individual members of the game protective associations was the reverse, they believing that the more opposition met with, the more their efforts should be redoubled. To say that to express one's belief that a great Provincial asset should be properly handled by men capable of handling it was taking part in politics was a reflection on the intelligence of sportsmen generally and especially on that of the members of the game protective associations.

It would be admitted that the Attorney-General knew nothing, or very little, about game of any kind, as Hon. Mr. Manson admitted that fact himself. The superintendent of Provincial police was at the head of game affairs, an official whose time was occupied with hundreds of other matters and who had never been known as a game authority. Nor could the speaker congratulate the Attorney-General on the other people he had selected to advise him regarding game administration.

Apart from one single member of the Game Conservation Board, Major Allan Brooks, who undoubtedly owned his place on the board to the efforts of the allied organization, and whose record since his appointment to that body had been a great disappointment to many, he having fallen under the hypnotic influence of the chairman, no single member of the board was an outstanding authority on any single question connected with game conservation.

CHARGE GENERAL

All the officials with whom the Attorney-General had surrounded himself put together did not know as much about game as Mr. Bryan Williams had forgotten. The chairman of the board had no use for the members of the game protective organizations but he, Mr. Clarance would venture to predict that the game associations would exist and work for the benefit of the wild life of B.C. long after Mr. Jackson's name had been forgotten.

Mr. W. C. Motley, associate editor of Rod and Gun in Canada, in addressing the gathering reviewed certain features of the game situation in B.C. He had always been in favor of a proper game department administered by a man of the same class as Mr. Bryan Williams, and considered the discharge of that official an extremely unfortunate matter. He considered that the sportsmen were not getting what they paid for and that if the police administration of game affairs really cost $100,000 annually, about half the revenue from game, the police must be exceptionally well paid. (Laughter.)

He was very pleased at Mr. Clarance's resolution. British Columbia was getting in the same situation as regards its game as many of the other portions of the North American Continent had got into. He would remind his hearers that ninety per cent of the native game birds and animals that existed in the United States sixty years ago were now exterminated. Game affairs in that land were not by any means so good as many American magazines tried to make out. Now in B.C., outside of the National Parks, game was not nearly as plentiful as interested officials reported it to be. The time had passed for amateur experiments.

The game officials at Victoria had little personal knowledge of northern game districts. It was quite safe to assert that the sportsmen who hunted in the mountains knew more about the Province's game assets than the game officials, and it would also be safe to state that this Province would never possess a sane game administration until that administration was controlled by a man who had first-hand knowledge of British Columbia, not merely of little portions of it.

Take the pheasant problem, for instance; it was a question that must be settled by competent game men, such as were not to be found in the ranks of the present game officials, with a few exceptions. He would be pleased to support the efforts being made by the Kelowna organization. Sportsmen were paying for game conservation, large revenues were being derived from game, and they were entitled to get what they were paying for. (Much applause.)

A resolution endorsing the necessity of establishing a game reserve in the Upper Kettle River Valley and pledging action in this direction if required, was passed.

The meeting also favored a game reserve on the west side of Okanagan Lake, but the exact location of it was the subject of divergent views.

CHAPTER XXXI

Maris went straight back to the Hotel de Paris and ascended in the lift to her room. There, as she expected, she found Brun. It was very evident that she had been drinking again, but that did not conceal the fact that she was frightened out of her life.

"It's all up," she said as Maris entered. "You have been recognized by more than one person in the club tonight as the Princess de Calvario. It is not safe for us to be in Monte Carlo another hour."

"What are we to do?" asked Maris.

"We must separate as soon as possible and each go her own way," was the reply.

"Where are you going?" asked Maris.

Brun was very unsteady, but pulled herself together.

"That I shall not tell you," she answered. "If we are lucky enough to get back to Grosvenor Place, I will tell you my adventures when I meet you there. But—"

"But what?" Maris asked.

"I have many doubts whether we shall see that charming place again for years. Well," she added, putting out her hand, "I'm off. I wish you luck, but you will want all the luck you can get hold of to worry through this."

As she turned a thought struck Maris.

"Do you remember the night we went to the opera in Paris?" she asked her.

Brun faced her again.

"Yes, I remember," she answered. "We went to see 'Madame Buttterfly.'"

"You pointed out to me a lady in a box that night and told me she was one of the leaders of Parisian society, married to a very rich South American."

"Yes, that was Madame Gonzalez," Brun answered; "she is a big swell."

"I saw her in the club tonight," Maris said.

The other shook her head.

"I doubt it," she answered. "She is not the sort of lady to come to Monte Carlo. You must have seen someone like her."

"No," answered Maris, "I am quite certain that is the lady I saw at the opera in Paris."

Then some sort of presentiment crossed her mind that it would not be advisable to tell Brun of her encounter with Madame Gonzalez in the corridor leading to the club and what had taken place between them.

Maris also remembered that it was vital to get Brun out of the room before Madame Gonzalez arrived. But Brun looked at the clock on the mantelpiece and saved her the trouble.

"I must go," she said hastily; "this is no place for me now."

She turned as she reached the door.

"And no place for you," she added, "if you are wise."

Then she was gone.

Maris waited perhaps ten minutes, and then there came a knock at the door.

She went to it and opened it; on the threshold stood the lady in white she had left in the corridor.

She entered quickly and closed the door, and the two sat down together.

"I have altered my plans," proceeded Madame Gonzalez. "I will take you to Ventemiglia myself in my car, and you can, if you like, take a small bag of necessaries with you. My maid will come and fetch it and place it in the car."

"That is very kind of you," Maris said. "But are you not afraid of being seen with me?"

The white lady brushed that question aside.

"It will be better for you if I come," she said. "I am well known and no questions will be asked if you are with me. But before we go I want to explain certain things to you. At Ventemiglia you will be met by a friend of mine who will provide for your safety. But this friend knows nothing of the reason why you are leaving Monte Carlo and must not know. I want you to give me your solemn promise that you will not speak to anyone of the necessity of your leaving here, and that you will disclose nothing of the so-called club in Grosvenor Place. Now promise me."

Maris saw no reason why she should refuse to give this promise to one who was so evidently trying to save her from a terrible fate—the fate of a convicted felon in a French prison.

"Yes," she answered without hesitation, "I freely give you that promise, and I am very grateful to you for what you are doing for me."

"Very well, then," answered Madame Gonzalez, "I will tell you the reason why I have exacted that promise from you. It will make things clearer to you when I tell you that I am a Russian by birth, although now of course my nationality follows that of my husband. My family were strong adherents of the murdered Czar, so you may judge from that that I have not much love for the Soviet. But I have relatives, dear ones, who have been led away by this horrible revolution, many of them through fear, and you will understand that I cannot betray my own flesh and blood."

"I can understand it well," Maris replied, "and it will be an additional reason for my keeping my promise to you sacredly."

"Now," continued Madame Gonzalez, "we have not too much time to spare."

She went to the door and called "Marguerite," and there entered an obvious confidential maid of mature years.

"Now," proceeded Madame Gonzalez, "if you will tell Marquerite what you want to take with you she will pack it and see that it is put into the car."

In a few minutes Maris had pointed out some simple necessaries which she would require for a hurried journey, and these were soon packed at the maid's suggestion in her dressing-case.

This being done, the maid disappeared with the case.

"It is time that we moved," Madame Gonzalez suggested; "it is past twelve. Put your arm in mine, and stroll down with me," she added, "as if we were merely going for a walk. The car is waiting at the Casino."

Maris followed her instructions, and the two, without hats, went to the lift and descended to the lounge.

There were very few visitors about, and Madame Gonzalez passed easily through the hall and out into the moonlit Place de Casino smoking a cigarette.

They entered the Casino and Maris by her friend's direction strolled up and down the altrium once or twice to disarm suspicion. Then, returning to the entrance the expected car which had evidently been awaiting madame's appearance came over from the rank and drew up.

The two entered it, and, without a word, the footman closed the door, mounted to his seat and the car moved off.

Evidently the chauffeur had received his instructions beforehand. They took the road through the Boulevard des Moulins out towards Menton and the frontier.

Maris, of course, had never travelled it before; she was struck by the beauty of the moonlight on the sea; it was a novel sight to her to see the beauty of a Riviera night.

She was moved presently to ask her companion a question:

"I do not wish to appear ungrateful," she began, "but when I leave you and enter on another journey, where will that journey lead me to?"

Madame Gonzalez laid a hand upon her arm.

"You must leave that to fate," she said. "I have told you all I am able to tell you. To have remained another day at Monte Carlo would have meant instant ruin for you."

"But, stay," she continued, perhaps to change Maris' thoughts, "you have not shown me the money that was given you by Brun."

Maris produced her bag, and took out her English notes.

Madame Gonzalez turned on the electric light in the car and examined them minutely.

"They are crumpled and soiled," she said, "and may be genuine, but I think you had better use these."

She produced from her own bag a bundle of English notes and thrust them into Maris' bag.

"There is no doubt about these, at any rate," she commented. "If by any chance the notes you have are not good, to be found in possession of them would be fatal to you."

Maris thanked her and turned her face once more to the lovely sea rippling in the moonlight. It seemed to her that the whole scene and her flight from Monte Carlo were parts of a dream.

Then they reached the French Custom House just beyond Menton.

The Douanier came to the door of the car and asked for passports. Madame Gonzalez handed hers and Maris' together. The Douanier looked cursorily at madame's, evidently recognized the name, bowed, and returned it. But Maris' he was a little puzzled with. He could not understand how it was that a "commerciante" was travelling on terms of equality with a lady whose name was known all over Europe.

But evidently he came to the conclusion that the matter was no business of his. There was Madame Gonzalez in her splendid car with her two menservants in attendance, all passports were in order, and the thing as far as he, the Douanier, was concerned, could go through. He confined himself by asking whether the party were taking any gold currency out of France, and was in return assured that they had none with them.

The Douanier saluted to so much wealth as exemplified by a glimpse of Madame Gonzalez' diamonds; the footman jumped into his place and the car proceeded.

Madame Gonzalez bent down and whispered to Maris:

"Evidently the French police suspect nothing, or you would have been stopped. I do not believe the Italians will trouble us at their frontier."

But madame had made a miscalculation; there were difficulties she had not anticipated at the Italian frontier which very nearly upset their plans and sent them back to France.

As they approached the well-known Custom House just over the Italian border, there lounged out into the moonlight a figure which might have walked out of the chorus at the opera. He was an "Alpino," a member of a regiment which corresponds to the French Chasseurs Alpins, and keeps the Italian side of the frontier. His cloak was well thrown over his shoulder, he wore a high felt hat, and from it stuck out a long feather. He might have belonged to the fourteenth century.

He swaggered up to the car and was perhaps a little put out by such an unexpected traveller at such an hour. He ordered the two men off the box and proceeded to examine their seat. Both servants being French, they resented it.

Then the Alpino turned his attention to the ladies and pointed to Maris' bag.

"He wants you to open it," Madame Gonzalez said. "I suppose you have nothing contraband in it?"

Maris was alarmed.

"I know of nothing," she answered. "I hardly know what is in it."

The Alpino ran his hands over the delicate underclothing, but found nothing which he could complain of.

"Passports!" was his next demand.

Madame Gonzalez's was all right, but Maris' he found fault with. It was not until she had put her pretty face out into the moonlight that he consented to recognize the photograph as being that of herself.

Then the telephone bell rang in the Custom House, and the Alpino, none too pleased, went to answer it. He came back rather excited.

"Some lady has passed the French frontier who ought to have been stopped," Madame translated for Maris' benefit. "It looks as if the French police have awakened to the situation. But don't be alarmed—the fact of your being with me will allay suspicion."

Madame Gonzalez, who spoke fluent Italian, had a short conversation with the official.

"I have told him to ring up the French Douanier at the frontier where we stopped, as he knows us. That Frenchman is a gentleman."

The Italian came back in a few minutes, apparently satisfied; he made a motion with his hand for the servants to mount the box and proceed; he even went to the length, as the car passed him, to salute the ladies.

"I was right—the French Douanier is a gentleman," Madame commented.

CHAPTER XXXII

The beautiful car rolled into the somewhat dilapidated old town of Ventemiglia and their journey was at an end.

It drew up at a small hotel facing the station in which lights were still burning.

"We get out here," said madame, "and wait for our friend."

They entered the lounge of the hotel, which was empty though lighted up. Maris wondered who this friend could be, and was on the point of asking Madame Gonzalez when someone quickly entered the front door of the hotel and came into the lounge.

Madame Gonzalez rose and extended her hand.

"How do you do, Lord Barstone?" she said.

CARRIED WIFE TO BED

Suffered So She Could Not Walk. Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minesing, Ontario.—"I am a practical nurse and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to suffering women. For three months I was almost helpless and could not sit at the table long enough to drink a cup of tea. Many a time my husband carried me to bed, I would be so weak. Then he read in the paper of a woman suffering as I did who got better after taking the Vegetable Compound, so he went and got it for me. When I had taken three bottles I was just like a new woman and have had splendid health ever since. When I feel any bearing-down pains I always take it; sometimes a half bottle or whatever I need. It is my only medicine and I have told many a one about it. Any one wanting to know more about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I will gladly write to her. I do all I can to recommend it for I feel I owe my life and strength to it."—Mrs. NEAL BOWSER, R.R. 1, Minesing, Ontario.

Do you feel broken-down, nervous, and weak sometimes? Do you have this horrid feeling of fear which sometimes comes to women when they are not well? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently will relieve this condition. C

Beaten Woman's Recovery Possible, Says Hospital

VANCOUVER, June 20.—That despite the severity of her injuries, Mrs. Annie Donald, who was beaten about the head with a hammer at her home on Cambie Street a few nights ago, may recover, is the opinion of medical authorities at the General Hospital, where the woman is a patient.

Mrs. Donald regained consciousness on Friday evening. Her husband, who cut his throat and wrists in an effort to commit suicide, is progressing favorably.

If Teeth Lack Gleam Just Do This

Removing film restores sparkling whiteness

Please accept full 10-day tube free of this remarkable new method that leading dental authorities urge . . . note the difference in teeth and gums as dingy film coat goes.

* * *

The prettiest smile becomes ugly when teeth look clouded. Now modern science restores "off-color" teeth to dazzling whiteness.

It's been found that dingy teeth come simply from a film that forms on teeth. A stubborn film old-type dentifrices did not successfully remove. That's why brushing failed you.

Run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel that film now—a sort of slippery coating. It is a chief enemy of healthy teeth and gums.

It absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. It invites tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea because it breeds bacteria.

Now, in a new type dentifrice called Pepsodent, a scientific combatant has been found. Leading dentists widely urge it. All druggists have it. Ten-day test sent free.

Again we say

—the world's greatest tire

Greatest Because of Longer Mileage—Greater Traction—Finer Appearance

Announced only within the past month, the New Goodyear All-Weather Tread Balloon Tire, prior to its announcement, had proven itself the greatest tire ever offered. Greater even than the previous Goodyear Balloon which, as proved by its sales, had established itself firmly in the premier position.

In actual service on thousands of cars and for 5,400,000 tire miles on the Goodyear test fleet—this Great New Goodyear Balloon had vindicated in no uncertain manner its claim to being—The World's Greatest Tire.

SUPERTWIST Balloon Carcass

Never has Supertwist Cord had an opportunity to so thoroughly demonstrate its superior worth as in the New Goodyear Balloon.

Never has performance of a tire so clearly established the wisdom of Goodyear's foresight in developing in its own mills a Cord with inherent elasticity—a cord which itself stretches under road-shocks, and springs back without breaking. Supertwist is Goodyear's own product, reserved for use in Goodyear Tires alone.

Supertwist is 61% more elastic than old-style Cord (see chart to the left). It, therefore, absorbs shocks which would break old-style Cords, thus, of course, adding immeasurably to the life of the tire.

ALL-WEATHER Balloon Tread

This newest All-Weather Tread—the greatest tire tread ever devised—presages greater mileage and more efficient traction than has been given by any earlier type of balloon tire.

Selected from 86 tread designs—each exhaustively and impartially tested—this new design was chosen because:

It overcomes the typically rapid tread wear of Balloon Tires.

It "pinches" the road and grips and hangs on.

It runs smoothly and quietly.

It adds to the appearance of the car.

It carries the car safely around curves and even on wet pavements.

The great New Goodyear Balloon—The World's Greatest Tire—offers you the opportunity of at once enjoying the greater all-'round economy and satisfaction which the world's largest tire manufacturer now offers you at a price no higher than is asked for other tires.

CANADA MAKES SPEEDY VOYAGE

Fine Weather Marks Eastbound Trip of Empress of Canada Across Pacific — Has Big Cargo

MANY DISEMBARK FROM SHIP HERE

With full holds and a passenger list of approximately 900 persons, the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada docked at the Rithet Consolidated piers from the Orient at 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning, completing the pleasantest voyage across the Pacific the vessel has made this year.

The weather was so fine, Captain A. J. Halley, R.N.R., reported, that when a day and a half out from this port, he found it necessary to slow the vessel down in order that she might not reach here ahead of schedule at sunrise Sunday.

The Canada's stern was damaged slightly at Manila during a typhoon, when the Norwegian freighter Talwan became unruly and scraped against the big liner, as she was docking. Smashed stern rails constituted the only injury to the Canada, the Captain said.

DISEMBARK HERE

Three hundred and thirty passengers landed here, sixty being saloon passengers and most of the others Filipinos en route steerage to the United States.

Mr. M. K. Lo, leading barrister of Hong Kong, disembarked here. He intends to spend the Summer months in this city with his family.

One hundred and fifty tons of cargo and 488 bags of mail, the latter for United States points, were discharged at the Rithet piers. Shipments of raw silk, comprising nearly 3,800 bales, and valued at approximately $4,000,000, were included in the cargo.

THE PASSENGERS

Peacock, of the British American Tobacco Company, Shanghai, bound to England with his wife on holiday; A. F. Algie, of Doney & Company, Tientsin, with Mrs. Algie; J. P. Seattle Captain Crosses Atlantic In One-Man Craft

PLYMOUTH, Eng., June 20.—Captain Thomas Drake, of Seattle, who is on a leisurely voyage around the world in his thirty-five-foot Pilgrim, arrived safely here today after having navigated across the Atlantic alone.

Captain Drake left Charleston, S.C., on April 27. He had intended to call at the Azores, but because of severe weather sailed directly to Plymouth. He said today that he had slept every night of the crossing, heaving to when in storms.

The captain left Seattle more than two years ago.

VANCOUVER SHIP RULES DRAWN UP

Department of Marine Notifies Mariners of Regulations in Force at Mainland Port

Mariners have been notified by the Department of Marine of the shipping regulations for Vancouver harbor and the entrance thereto. The notice, signed by the Deputy Minister of Marine, Mr. A. Johnston, states that the international rules of the road at sea, and the regulations for preventing collisions at sea must be strictly observed in the harbor at Vancouver.

Tugs entering or leaving the harbor must shorten their hawsers to thirty fathoms, and there must be at least a quarter-mile distance between following tugs. Log rafts must not be larger than twenty sections, or 160 feet wide and 1,600 feet long, when in the harbor.

"No vessel," says the notice, "shall tow any other vessel, raft or goods in any part of the harbor unless such vessel shall have sufficient power to maintain complete control of such other vessel, raft or goods; and the master of such towing vessels have the responsibility of seeing that said vessel has the necessary power for the desired purpose."

The speed between Brockton and Prospect Points is definitely set at not faster than twelve knots, but when southward of an imaginary line drawn from Brockton Point to the burner at Hastings mill, the speed shall not exceed seven knots.

Vessels passing dredges, wrecks, tows, public works or any licenced ferry within the limits of the harbor must do so at a speed not greater than seven knots.

ARIZONA MARU DUE JUNE 27

With 100 tons of general cargo for discharge here, the Osaka Shosen Kaisha liner Arizona Maru will arrive from the Orient on June 27, according to advices received here yesterday by Rithet Consolidated, Limited, local agents for the company. Thirty of the vessels fifty-seven passengers will disembark here.

EEMYDK IS DUE TO DOCK TODAY

Holland-Amerika Liner Nearing Port From Europe—Ought to Arrive Here by Noon

VESSEL WILL LOAD AND UNLOAD HERE

With 150 tons of general cargo for discharge at this port, the Holland-Amerika liner Eemdyk is expected to dock at the Rithet Consolidated piers from Rotterdam and United Kingdom ports some time today, according to word received here yesterday by Mr. A. P. Moffat, local agent for the company.

The Eemdyk left San Francisco for this port at 11:45 o'clock on Saturday night, and as sixty hours are usually allowed for the voyage from the Golden Gate to this port of vessels of her type, Mr. Moffat said yesterday that the ship ought to dock here by noon today.

The Eemdyk has no passengers for Victoria. In addition to discharging cargo here, the vessel will load 100 tons of outward freight before sailing for Vancouver.

Cargo Is Being Lightered From Ship Challamba

PRINCE RUPERT, June 20.—The motor freighter Challamba, from Seattle for Ketchikan, lies keeled over on Whitecliffe Island in Queen Charlotte Sound, where she struck Saturday morning. The ship has a hole in her side, her seams are loosened and the pumps are not working owing to the steam power being out of commission.

Captain Swanson, with a Prince Rupert salvage outfit, is busy lightering about sixty tons of cargo, including a few dozen oil tanks. The weather continues clear and calm. With a high tide in about six days, if the weather holds, there will be a fair chance of floating the ship.

Whisky Ship Is Captured Off New York

NEW YORK, June 20.—After evading the coastguard patrol along the New Jersey coast, the steamship Turner, which, according to Customs record, left Halifax on June 9 bound for sea as "The Traders," was captured today in the narrows off Quarantine by a coastguard cutter. Approximately ten thousand cases of whisky were seized. The crew of sixteen men were held under armed guard. The Turner is under United States registry.

KAGA WILL DOCK EARLY WEDNESDAY

Arriving at William Head from the Orient at midnight tonight, the Nippon Yusen Kaisha liner Kaga Maru, will dock at the Rithet Consolidated piers at 1:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, according to wireless advices received from the ship yesterday by Mr. A. H. Hebb, local agent for the company.

Nine first class and nineteen third-class passengers will disembark from the vessel at this port and 100 tons of cargo and sixty-five bags of mail will be put ashore before the Kaga sails for Seattle.

The lot would be used as a beacon site, Colonel A. W. R. Wilby, Agent of Marine here for the Dominion Government, stated yesterday.

FILIPINO HAPPY: GENERAL STATES

GENERAL WOOD, GOVERNOR OF PHILIPPINE ISLANDS, IS VISITOR TO CITY

Tells of Increasing Prosperity in American Dependency—To Visit President

"The happiest people in the world," was the way in which General Leonard Wood, Governor of the Philippine Islands, described the people of the American dependency, during his short stay in Victoria yesterday morning as a passenger on the American Mail liner President Madison, inbound from the Orient.

Of the Filipinos, General Wood, who is on his way to the East to confer with President Coolidge, said:

"They are a peaceful, prosperous and happy people throughout the Islands. There is a large balance in the treasury and a heavy balance of trade in favor of the Islands. I think they are the happiest people in the world."

There is no sign of Bolshevist activities in the Philippines, General Wood says, and labor trouble is conspicuously absent.

The general declined to discuss political questions prior to his conference with the President of the United States. He will visit New York as well as Washington, he says, and then return to Manila.

While at Washington General Wood, it is understood, will ask for the appointment of experts in sociology, economics and government as aides in the civil administration of the Philippines.

Dr. J. A. Proctor, secretary of the Far East Society of Missions and connected with the North Baptist Mission Board, another passenger on the President Madison, stated that he would not be surprised if business on the Yangtze River were to reopen next month.

"Except for areas of actual fighting," he said, "business has been proceeding steadily in China. When the fighting is finished in one place and it is captured, business goes on as before."

ENGLISH CATTLE CROSS ATLANTIC

MONTREAL, June 20.—After landing in Quebec the first cargo of cattle and sheep brought to Canada from Great Britain since the four-year embargo was raised on May 7, the Donaldson Line freighter Gracia, Captain A. B. Clark, docked in Montreal Saturday.

The cattle will be held in quarantine for thirty days, but the sheep have only to be quarantined for thirty days from the date of embarkation.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the tables, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of lower low water.

Esquimalt—To find the depth of water on the sill of the drydock at any tide, add 18.9 ft. to the height of high water as above given.

RADIO ORDERED FOR RACE ROCKS

Automatic Equipment to Send Out Signals to Enable Ships to Get Bearings in Fog

Radio apparatus to enable ships to get their bearings during fogs will soon be in operation at Race Rocks, according to an announcement yesterday of Mr. E. J. Haughton, division superintendent here of the radiotelegraph branch of the Department of Marine and Fisheries.

Work on the installation of a radio beacon transmitter at the Race will commence early next month, Mr. Haughton said. The equipment will be of the latest type of valve transmitter, with an operating power of about 500 watts. It will be automatic in action. When the fog alarm is in operation the radio transmitter will commence at the same time to send out signals, and any ship within a radius of from seventy-five to 100 miles will be able to secure bearings.

"It is hoped that with this new installation the danger to ships during foggy weather in the so-called 'silent zone' between Bentinck Island and Race Rocks will be minimized," Mr. Haughton said in making the announcement.

In the last twenty years four vessels have run ashore in the "silent zone" referred to. The last was the Holland-Amerika liner Eemdyk.

SHANGHAI COMPANY BUYS ISLAND COWS

Paying Good Prices for Jersey Stock—Want of Records Spoils Sale for Some

COURTENAY, June 20.—The advantage of keeping careful records of their dairy animals has just been brought home to some of the farmers of the Comox Valley in no uncertain manner. Those farmers who have made a point of keeping breeding dates on record and who were able to definitely tell when their animals are due to freshen have been successful in making some sales at satisfactory prices. Mr. T. H. Orchardson and Captain Grant, acting for the Culty Dairy Company, of Shanghai, China, have been in the valley purchasing Jersey heifers, either purebred or grade, that will freshen with their first calf in September. Captain Grant, who has acted as manager for the dairy in Shanghai, selected the animals and expressed himself as very pleased with the Comox Jerseys.

The selection of the animals was narrowed down very considerably, as many of the farmers were unable to state when their stock is due to freshen. The Culty Dairy Company purchases from eighty to a hundred head per annum and are willing to pay good prices for the right kind of stock. They do not haggle over the price if breeding and quality are right. If the animals live up to their representation the buyers will be back for more. The Jersey breeders of the district contributing to this shipment include J. E. Marriott, of Royston; A. Knight and John McKenzie, of Comox; R. U. Hurford, of Courtenay; T. H. Brazier, G. W. T. Carwithen and John Crockett, of Sandwick; J. B. Cleland and D. M. Isenor, of Merville, and W. Grier, Arden, and others.

Refreshments will be served, to be followed by sports for the children. All residents of the district are cordially invited.

Gideon Hicks Pleases Audience at Courtenay

COURTENAY, June 20.—On Thursday evening the management of the Gaiety Theatre presented Mr. Gideon Hicks and the Misses Dorothy and Beatrice Hicks, well-known vocalists, of Victoria.

There was a good attendance to hear these artists. It is some years since Mr. Gideon Hicks appeared in Courtenay, but his voice remains full and true. Miss Dorothy Hicks was very pleasing with her lyric soprano; and her duet with her father, "Tutta le Feste al Tempo," from "Rigoletto," was heard to good advantage. Miss Beatrice Hicks accompanied at the piano.

ALASKAN TRAFFIC OPENS BRIGHTLY

Cruise of Princess Alice With Board of Trade Party Inaugurates Season of Northern Excursions

A representative party, including several members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, left Vancouver on Sunday night, for a visit to Northern British Columbia, the occasion being the twelfth members' excursion tour of the Coast organized by the Vancouver Board of Trade. The cruise will include calls at Powell River, Ocean Falls, Prince Rupert, Anyox, Alice Arm, Stewart, Bella Coola, Alert Bay, Englewood and Campbell River. The Princess Alice carried a full passenger list for the excursion.

This may be said to be the first of the numerous touring parties by Canadian Pacific Railway steamers which will make the Alaskan run of exceptional importance, and the gathering together of many parties during the season.

The Buchanan Boys' party will come again from Detroit, this being one of the most interesting from a financial point of view, in that the philanthropic business man who manages the excursion insists on the boys contributing to the cost, and thereby assures thrift for the Summer vacation. It was one of these parties which introduced Jack Miner, the famous Canadian naturalist, to this city two years ago.

There are a number of parties planned, following conventions in Seattle and Portland, as the national real estate association and the international fire chiefs' gathering, when delegates will transfer to steamers for a marine outing amid delightful scenery.

GENERAL SUTTON TO STAY IN B. C.

AIDE TO PEKING DICTATOR SAYS HE IS THROUGH WITH CHINA FOR PRESENT

He Plans to Dredge for Gold in This Province—Adventurous Career—Life in China

Because he likes a growing country and has tired of Manchuria—which is growing, but only "like a boil"—General Frank Sutton, right-hand man of the Chinese war lord, Chang Tso-Lin, during the past five years, passed through Victoria on Sunday morning, a passenger on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada, which docked here from the Orient.

However, "Old Chang," as the general, with a touch of affection, calls his Oriental chief, has offered him a new and better contract above the £15,000 he has been paying.

But General Sutton says he is through with China, for the time being at least.

Known from Singapore to Vladivostok for his exploits with Chang Tso-Lin, General Sutton, today a wealthy man, is engaging in a private campaign against Bolshevism, fighting the Reds with his own money, because "someone has to do it and I can afford it."

General Sutton is a striking figure over six feet in height, fair complexion and broadly built.

TO STAY IN B.C.

As the first man to dredge for gold in Siberia, General Sutton said he had decided to take a chance in some other northern country and had picked out British Columbia. He was not unmindful, at the same time, of the mining development here.

"My plan is to take a gold dredger up to some of the northern creeks," he explained. "Of course, I know that all the best ground has been done over, but I think there must be plenty of properties running thirty or forty cents a yard, which can be worked profitably."

Before plunging into the mining industry in British Columbia, however, General Sutton indicated that he might do some traveling in the United States and Great Britain. After a day or two in Vancouver, he will have a week's fishing on the Island.

ANTI-BOLSHEVIST

His conviction that Bolshevism was a disease that, if unchecked, would spread throughout the whole of China, had led him to establish his own intelligence service in Manchuria, General Sutton said.

"I had seventy-two men on the roster and thirty or forty agents out, some of whom were members of the Red organization itself. There were few Russian meetings, secret or not, where I did not have a man.

"It cost me a lot of money—about $8,000 a month. But why not? I'm a rich man now. Someone had to do it and I could afford it, so I did it."

General Sutton produced a threatening letter he had received from the Reds: "Sutton,—Everything you do we know. You be careful. You draw maps, prints circulars. You send out, ha, ha. You die. We every day follow you—Pekin Club, every place. Car No. 4856, of Mukden. No fear your pistol. Only air. You be good to us. We meet soon."

The note carried as signature two small symbols in red ink and the words, "No. 2, Pekin."

A small Red flag, fashioned from paper, was attached to the letter by a pin.

IN GREAT WAR AND AFTER

Since his graduation from an English university, General Sutton's life has been of the most adventurous character. When the war broke out he rushed home from Mexico, where he was working as an engineer, to join the Royal Engineers. In the Gallipoli campaign he won the M.C. but lost his right arm when, to protect his men, he attempted to bury a Turkish hand grenade in the earth before it could explode.

He was sent to the United States on a special mission in 1917 and there became national supervisor in that country for the manufacture of trench mortars.

After the war he tried his hand at gold dredging in Siberia, but was driven out when the Reds swept across Russia to the Pacific Coast. Then he went to China with the idea that he could conquer the country with a trench mortar.

Finally engaged by Chang Tso-Lin to turn out weapons of this character for him, his efforts turned the scale in Chang's struggle with Wu Pei-Fu in 1924, and the young Briton was made a general in the war lord's army and given a present of $100,000.

Radio Helped to Save Life of Injured Man

DIRECTING the treatment of a critically injured sailor 190 miles away by wireless and thereby saving the man's life has been the experience of Surgeon Taylor, of the Canadian Pacific steamship Minnedosa, photographed above. On May 29 a wireless was received that John Pope, a sailor of the American vessel Natirar was badly injured by a fall sixty feet from the cross trees of the mast. The two ships were nearly 200 miles apart, but the course of the Minnedosa was altered and they hove to towards the end of the day. The injured man was transferred to the Minnedosa's hospital, and aboard that ship was rushed to a Quebec hospital. The accident took place in mid-Atlantic.

YELLOW CAB MEN OUT ON STRIKE

VANCOUVER, June 20.—Vancouver streets in the vicinity of steamship docks and railway depots present a strange appearance with no Yellow Taxis lined along the curbs. The drivers of the forty-four cabs went on strike Saturday at 7 p.m. Frank Barnes, manager of the B.C. Transportation Company, which operates the Yellow Cab fleet, stated yesterday that the service was being maintained as usual with touring cars, all boats and trains Sunday being served. A wage dispute is involved in the strike.

FREIGHTER DOCKS TO LOAD LUMBER

The Cape of Good Hope, Glasgow freighter, docked at the Ogden Point piers for lumber early yesterday evening. The vessel will load approximately one million feet of lumber here for Eastern Canada, King Brothers, local agents for the vessel, stated yesterday.

Challamba Cannot Be Floated Till Week-End

PRINCE RUPERT, June 20.—With her midship section unsupported and in danger of buckling, the Challamba, which went ashore twenty miles from Prince Rupert on Saturday morning while en route to Southeastern Alaska, will not be floated before next Saturday or Sunday, experts said to night. The ship, which was bound from Southeastern Alaska, is reported leaking.

The damage cannot be accurately ascertained until the next low tide.

Burglars Rob Vault of Government of Bahama

NASSAU, Bahamas, June 20.—Sentences of seven years' imprisonment were imposed on three men convicted of dynamiting the currency vault of the Government Treasury Department in March, 1926, and stealing $47,000 in United States gold and silver, held there as reserve fund for Bahama note issues.

The One-Cost Pen

Perfect order always—no accidental breakage—or No Charge to make it good

Made in Canada —Same Price as in the States

Some pens cost little to buy and much to keep.

Parker Duofold costs $7 for the Over-size—$5 for the Junior or Lady size. And then you pay no more.

For every Parker Duofold must stay in perfect order and defy all accidental breakage. Parker makes good without cost should any Duofold fail.*

Some other pens are priced higher for this. And are made extra stiff to stand abuse.

Not so with Duofold. Its everlasting point is tempered to yield to any hand, yet never lose shape. And no point matches its jewel-like smoothness. So it needs no "breaking in."

Non-breakable, too, is its beautiful Permanite Barrel—in Jade, in Lacquer-red, in Mottled Blue, in Chinese Yellow. Each colour made doubly effective by Parker's smart black tips—a registered trade-mark.

It is useless to pay more, for there's nothing finer. And it's folly to pay less—for that means more in the end.

Pens made to resemble this classic can't deceive, if you insist on the imprint, "Geo. S. Parker—DUOFOLD." Try the real Duofold beside other pens at any near-by counter. See, today, the difference we describe.

THE PARKER FOUNTAIN PEN COMPANY, LIMITED TORONTO 3, ONTARIO

Parker Duofold OVER SIZE $7

Duofold Jr. $5 Lady Duofold $5

* To prove that Parker Duofold Pens will stay in perfect order, Parker agrees to make good free, if one should fail even through accidental breakage, provided complete pen is sent by the owner direct to Parker with 12c for return postage and registration.

STRANGLER WANTED IN BUFFALO ALSO

Further Identification Reaches Winnipeg From Various Cities in United States

WINNIPEG, June 20.—Science was being called into play today to aid Winnipeg police in their task of identifying Virgil Wilson, the man of many aliases, who is in custody here charged with the murder of two Winnipeg women and alleged to be "the Strangler" sought for two years by the authorities of several states across the border.

As pictured, fingerprints and Bertillon measurements of the suspect reached United States cities where the strangler struck at defenceless women, the identification of the Winnipeg prisoner became more positive.

From Buffalo, N.Y., came word that Wilson or Nelson, as he was elsewhere known, had been positively identified from Bertillon measurements as Charles Harrison, wanted for the murder of Mrs. Jennie Randolph, rooming house keeper of that city.

Police of Portland, Ore., have added their evidence to that already obtained by the Winnipeg police, stating that they are certain the suspect is the individual who masqueraded as Adrian Harris or Earl Ferrell, on the Pacific Coast.

In support of the Portland report, a dispatch from San Francisco declared that Mrs. Mary Ferrell, a house mother employed at a Palo Alto private school, has identified herself as the undivorced wife of "Earl Nelson." She is quoted as saying she had not lived with him for the last six years and had not seen him since last October.

The long chain of accusers was further extended when Mrs. C. L. Drummond, sister of Mrs. Florence Monk, victim of the strangler in Seattle, Wash., declared that the man held here "in every respect meets the description of the fiend who murdered my sister."

Precautionary measures unprecedented in the history of the local jail are being taken. Wilson is locked in a reinforced cell, his hands manacled, while four police guards maintain a twenty-four-hour vigil.

Watson: "I wonder if that young man can really support our daughter."

Mrs. Watson: "Well, he can certainly keep her up."

Canada Is Gathering Data On Aboriginal Inhabitants

Importance of Study of Anthropology Recognized and Museums Are Being Established and Chairs Created, Says Toronto Professor

By T. F. McILWRAITH, M.A.
Assistant Professor of Anthropology, University of Toronto.

The primary function of anthropology in Canada has been the collection of information concerning the aborigines, and in this sense it can claim to be the oldest science in the country, although its genesis was singularly inauspicious. In 1506, Denis of Honfleur, exploring what is now the Gulf of St. Lawrence, encountered a number of Indians and carried off one of their children. This act, as senseless as it was brutal, was imitated, alas, by many early travelers and sowed the seeds of ill-will between white and native which grew into a harvest of bloodshed. This kidnapping, however, showed that Denis of Honfleur recognized the interest which his compatriots would take in an inhabitant of the Western World, an interest which has never waned, and which ultimately led to scientific investigation by anthropological methods.

Cartier, Champlain, La Salle and other explorers, French, English, Dutch and Portuguese, included descriptions of the aborigines in their dispatches, took back to Europe a few "curios," and sometimes carried away unsuspecting natives, either as slaves or to be exhibited in the Old World. The early history of Eastern Canada is largely a history of the relations between the white man and the Indian; it was with the latter that the coureurs de bois penetrated far into Northern Ontario; it was the birch-bark canoe which gave the French such mobility as far West as the Plains; it was to obtain furs from the Indians and the support of distant tribes against the English that led to many a long voyage through the lakes of Eastern and Northern Canada.

Knowledge of the natives was essential for all these purposes, but unfortunately most of the early explorers have left us tantalizingly brief accounts of their observations, and it is to the missionaries that we owe the first detailed records. The Jesuit Fathers had to understand the ways of their flock if they were to gain converts; in the midst of their hardships in Huronia they took time to pen long dispatches from which a wealth of information concerning the habits of the Indians can be gleaned.

TIME OF STRIFE

During the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries, interest in the Indians of Eastern Canada took on a new aspect. It was a time of strife; wars between the English and Dutch, between the French and English, between the English and the American colonies; in all these struggles the Europeans were eager to enlist the aid of Indian allies, but at all other times there was intermittent conflict between white and native, the former seeking land to settle, the latter to defend his ancestral home. Interest waned with familiarity; the Indian was an urgent, practical problem and though historical documents of this period abound in references to him, his customs had ceased to be of interest as strange and unfamiliar.

Meanwhile, however, other parts of Canada were being explored and valuable information recorded concerning the customs of tribes newly encountered. Hearne, Vancouver, Cook, Mackenzie and a host of others have left us accounts of their researches. It was in this period, too, that factors of the Hudson's Bay Company were entering into communication with the natives in the northern and western parts of the continent.

The tradition that explorers should describe the tribes with which they came in contact was continued during the nineteenth century, and led to the first scientific studies of the Indians. In the latter part of the century, when the Geological Survey was established by the Dominion Government, trained investigators were sent out to determine the mineral wealth of the country and to prepare maps and surveys. Their work brought them into contact with the natives and many of them collected not only information but brought back valuable ethnological specimens.

Foremost among these men was Dr. G. M. Dawson, director of the Geological Survey from 1893 to 1899, who made important studies concerning the Indians of British Columbia and stimulated research in that area. Objects of interest to the general public began to accumulate in Ottawa and ultimately, in the early part of this century, were placed under the direction of Dr. H. M. Ami. He arranged them in conjunction with specimens of natural history and thus virtually founded the ethnological museum which is now such an important part of the National Museum of Canada.

As science developed, the sphere of the Geological Survey broadened. Anthropological work had been accepted as a fit subject for investigation during the last century, but it was not until 1910 that a division of anthropology was formed, a step recommended by members of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and eagerly taken up by Dr. R. W. Brock, then Deputy Minister of Mines. Dr. E. Sapir was brought from Columbia University to take charge of the division, and for the last seventeen years anthropological work of the highest quality has been carried out under his direction and under that of his successor, Mr. D. Jenness. The results obtained are highly commendable in view of the smallness of the staff and difficulties in publication.

OTHERS TAKE INTEREST

Meanwhile, other scientific bodies had taken an interest in the anthropology of Canada. About 1883 the British Association for the Advancement of Science appointed a committee, on which Dr. Brock served, to prosecute investigation of the tribes of British Columbia. They secured the services of Dr. Boas, of New York, whose researches, published by the British Association, are still of the greatest value. Professor Boas, dean of American anthropologists, has long taken an interest in Canadian studies. As far back as 1888 the Bureau of Ethnology at Washington published a long report by him on the Eskimo; another on the Kwakiutl was printed by the United States National Museum in 1897, and a few years later he organized the Jesup expedition under the auspices of the Natural History Museum of New York to study in some detail the peoples of British Columbia. Since that time, anthropological researches among the Indians of Canada have been conducted by the Smithsonian Institution, the University of Pennsylvania, the Meye Museum and, within recent years, the Danish Thule expedition. As Canadians we cannot but feel gratified at this interest shown by foreign scientific bodies in our own problems, but it must remain a source of regret to us that we have been unable to contribute our full share in this work.

In the latter part of the last century, the relation of anthropology to the cultural history of mankind became evident from the researches of Darwin, Maine, Spencer, and later, Sir Edmund Tylor. In Canada the University of Toronto was the first institute of higher learning to appreciate the importance of the subject, and Sir Daniel Wilson, who became professor of history and English literature in 1853, and was president from 1880 to 1892, delivered lectures on the races of man and kindred subjects. Interest waned after his death, although ethology remained officially as a subject to be dealt with by the Department of History.

CHAIR CREATED

It was not until 1919, however, that St. Michael's College created a chair of anthropology and called Sir Bertram Windle, F.R.S., to be the first occupant. His public lectures on the subject attracted a great deal of attention, and in 1922 he was made a special lecturer in ethnology in the University of Toronto. In the same year the senate passed a resolution recommending that the Board of Governors establish a department of Anthropology in the faculty of arts. This motion was moved by Professor McMurrich, who had long favored such a proposal, and seconded by Sir Bertram Windle.

Financial stringency delayed the carrying out of this recommendation until 1925 when a lectureship was established and the present writer came to Toronto to fill it. In 1926 he was made an assistant professor, and a number of courses were commenced. Undergraduate instruction is now given, as well as a course leading to an M.A. in anthropology. It is to be hoped that other universities in Canada will develop this subject which now occupies an important place in the curricula of the larger universities of England and the United States.

Another important stimulus to anthropological work in Canada has been the museums. The establishment of one in Ottawa has already been referred to; it is to be hoped that under its new title of the National Museum of Canada its work will become increasingly important. In Toronto, David Boyle was a pioneer in museum work. Soon after coming to the city in 1875 he presented his valuable collection of local archaeological material to the Canadian Institute; it was later transferred to the Normal School where Boyle was made first director of the Provincial museum. His untiring zeal enabled him to amass an enormous number of specimens illustrating the life of the Indians of Ontario, which is still housed in cramped quarters in the Normal School.

MUSEUM ESTABLISHED

Somewhat later the University of Toronto began to acquire anthropological material and a small museum was established in the tower of University College.

Early in the century Mr. C. T. Currelly, a graduate of the university, came back to Toronto after wide experience in Egypt, with the determination to establish a museum of archaeology and art, which should be an inspiration to the people of the province. Sir Edmund Walker supported his efforts, and in 1913 the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology was opened. Its growth has since been so phenomenal that it is now the largest museum in the Empire outside of London, and contains specimens which mark it as one of the treasure houses of the world. Its establishment is a tribute alike to Sir Edmund Walker, Professor Currelly, the Government of Ontario, and the University of Toronto.

Other Canadian museums are more local in character. In Victoria, the efforts of Dr. C. F. Newcombe led to the creation of a provincial museum, containing a wealth of material pertaining to British Columbia. Similar establishments at Vancouver, Winnipeg, Hamilton, Montreal, St. John and other centres, all serve to stimulate interest in anthropology.

At this time of Jubilee, our minds naturally turn to the history of Canada and to the development of various phases of Canadian activity. One of the great functions of history, however, is to guide our course in the future, and it is well to consider what steps are necessary for the prosecution of satisfactory anthropological work. The universities, museums and the anthropological division of the Department of Mines must co-operate in their separate, yet closely related spheres.

Instruction of students may well be left to our higher institutions of learning, where there have been many signs that the importance of anthropology is being recognized. Museums must play an important part in the education of the general public by the display of native handicraft, and also by the provision of non-technical works for the lay reader.

Not least important is the collection of anthropological material and the publication of detailed scientific studies on the aborigines of this country. Every year are dying the older people who alone are familiar with the customs of their ancestors, and the need for field investigations is urgent in the extreme. Such studies are of inestimable value to the student of mankind as well as to the practical administrator and the missionary.

The Dominion Government has long realized the necessity for such work; it is to be hoped that the staff of the Anthropological Division will be increased, and that more and more monographs of a technical nature will appear for the benefit of generations of students. In time it may be necessary to broaden the scope of the inquiries to include a study of the social problems of the immigrant races which are combining to form the future population of our country, a work in which the co-operation of the sociologist and the psychologist will be required.

All indications point to the fact that anthropology will be one of the important subjects of the future; we in Canada at the present time must bend our efforts to the collection of fast-vanishing data if it is not to be said that we have neglected a wonderful opportunity for advancing the science of the study of man.

HEROIC FARMER RESCUES SEVEN

TORNADO CRASHES SASKATCHEWAN FARMHOUSE—ALL INMATES BADLY HURT

Man With Leg Just Broken Rescues Seven Unconscious Persons

SASKATOON, June 20.—One woman was killed and seven persons injured when a tornado which tore through the Elfros district, east of Wynyard, at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon wrecked the farmhouse of G. F. Gudmunson. The dead: Mrs. G. F. Gudmunson, who died of injuries.

The storm struck the district with terrific force, as the Gudmunson family was at lunch. Fire started from an overturned stove, but Ingi Gudmunson, despite his broken leg, saved the rest of the eight inmates of the house, who were all unconscious. A neighbor was the first on the scene and telephoned to Elfros for aid.

The injured: Alla Gudmunson, internal injuries; Mindi Gudmunson, injuries to head; Ingi Gudmunson, leg broken; S. Krisjansen, a visitor, seriously hurt; a young boy, head and chest wounds; hired man, head wounds; F. Gudmunson, invalid grandfather, badly shocked.

Available physicians from Elfros and Wadena responded to the call, as well as nurses and other helpers of the community. The Elfros village hall was turned into an emergency hospital.

The tornado cut a swath through the district, blowing down trees and telephone poles for a quarter of a mile.

Seat on Mandate Commission May Be Given to Germany

GENEVA, June 20.—There are indications that the League of Nations' Mandate Commission, which began its sessions today, will vote to give Germany a seat on the Commission. If given a seat Germany will have a voice in the administration of her former colonies. It is understood that the League council and assembly will approve of the measure which is regarded as the first move by Germany toward regaining some of her lost colonies.

TRANSCANADA AIR MAIL TO BE TAKEN

WINNIPEG, June 20.—Captain Edward ("Teddy") Dobbin, head of a private airplane company, who will attempt a transcanada flight next month, starting at Montreal and flying continuously to Winnipeg and thence to Vancouver, was in the city today making landing arrangements before leaving for Montreal.

Captain Dobbin will fly alone, stopping one night in Winnipeg and leaving for Vancouver at dawn. He will carry with him the first transcanada air mail in his 80-horsepower plane, which is a de Havilland Moth.

Dominion Senator Dies At Home in Three Rivers

THREE RIVERS, Que., June 20.—Senator Hippolite Montplaisir, eighty-nine, died at his residence here today following a paralytic stroke that overtook him yesterday morning.

A well-known figure in provincial and Dominion affairs, and associated with Federal politics for the last fifty-three years, he was one of the few remaining elder statesmen who had their appointments from Canada's first Prime Minister, Sir John A. Macdonald. His appointment to the senate came in the last six months of the thirteen-year administration of the "Father of Confederation." Prior to that the Senator had represented Champlain County in the House of Commons for a space of seventeen years.

Capt. Drake of Seattle Reaches England Safely

PLYMOUTH, Eng., June 20.—Capt. Thomas Drake, of Seattle, who is on a leisurely voyage around the world in his 35-foot Pilgrim, arrived safely here today after having navigated across the Atlantic alone.

Capt. Drake left Charleston, S.C., on April 27. He had intended to call at the Azores, but because of severe weather sailed directly to Plymouth. He said today that he had slept every night of the crossing, heaving to when in storms.

The captain left Seattle more than two years ago. He outfitted and took on supplies in Victoria, B.C.

NEW YORK STOCKS DECLINE SHARPLY

ADVANCE IN EARLIER PART OF DAY IS REVERSED LATER IN LONG LIST

Interest in Bond Market Centres in Small Number of Issues Fluctuating Markedly

NEW YORK, June 20.—The stock market displayed an almost complete reversal of form today, selling off sharply at the close after an earlier period of strength during which more than a score of issues were elevated to new high levels.

General Motors sold down from 204½ to 200¾, and then rebounded to 201¾, off 1¼. United States Steel slipped from 123¼ to 120½, closing a point above that figure for a slight fractional gain. Houston, after having rallied from 155 to 164, sold down to 159¾, up 4¼.

Kansas City Southern advanced 2½ to 63½, the highest price in its history, but lost half of its gain.

Wabash, New York, Ontario & Western, Western Maryland, and some of the other medium and low-priced favorites were heavy. Baldwin soared to 228, or within a fraction of its record high, and then eased to 225¾, up 5¼. White Motors touched a new low at 39½.

The limited trading in the bond market was centred chiefly in a handful of issues, some of which fluctuated rather sharply in both directions. High grade issues were extremely quiet and showed little change in price, while considerable demand developed for bond carrying stock warrants.

Prospects of substantial additions to the already huge supply of new issues undoubtedly led many traders to restrict their bond commitments, at least until the large July reinvestment demand begins to make itself felt. Several German loans of formidable proportions are now in the process of negotiation and the $30,000,000 Republic of Columbia issue will reach the market within a short time.

Winnipeg Wheat Advances on Weather Reports and Breaks on Heavy Profit-Taking

WINNIPEG, June 20.—Within a narrow range the wheat market was erratic today and final quotations were 1 cent to 1¼ cents lower than Saturday's close. July 158⅞; October 145⅛ and December 141⅞.

Prices advanced with reports of wet weather in Southwestern United States harvest fields, and July was carried to 161, but profit-taking intervened and prices broke 2¼ cents from the high point.

The weather prospects for the Canadian West are favorable. Rain has been almost general in the three prairie provinces and temperatures have been high.

Trading in coarse grain futures was light and prices narrow. Demand in cash grains was limited.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Bar silver, 56¼; Mexican dollars, 42⅝.

Winnipeg Grain Letter

(Supplied by R. P. Clark & Co., Ltd.)

WINNIPEG, June 20.—The wheat market opened slightly higher and gradually advanced to about one cent above Saturday's close largely in sympathy with strength in Chicago, as this market was inclined to be quiet, with little of feature going on with export business and demand dull, although New York reported some Manitobas of three and four cent grades over Sunday, some two hard for July shipment, while there was better tone to the cables. The bulge was not held, prices easing off around midday and declining 2⅜ cents from early high mark and closing 1⅜ lower. Liverpool steady, closing about ⅝ to 1d. higher. Considerable rail was reported over Winter wheat territory with a cloudburst at Salins, all of which is delaying harvest in that section and causing apprehension as to further West. Offerings in local pit are light and there is little wheat coming out except by longs on the bulges. The market acted a little toppy. Weather in Western Canada is very favorable, warm and there has been showers in some districts. Wheat crop is making excellent progress and the outlook is becoming more optimistic. Dry weather continues in Argentina and Australia in most sections. World's shipments for past week only 13,415,000 bushels, of which 8,420,000 cleared from North America. On passage stocks showed a sharp decline of 5,136,000 bushels, indicating that Europe continues to absorb our wheat. United States visible decreased 1,145,000 bushels, while the Canadian visible decreased 3,500,000 bushels. The market may recede a little lower, but we favor purchases of wheat on recessions. Just a moderate cash demand existed locally.

Coarse Grains—These markets were firm, but dull, and buying small and featureless. Oats, barley and rye closed practically unchanged.

Flax—Trade featureless. Closing figures about 1-4c lower.
